Patriotically

As a group, Scots aid the community patriotically and spiritually with the clear perspective of youth.

Scholastically, Spiritually

Scots climb higher and higher scholastically, spiritually, socially, and patriotically. . . . The sky is the limit.

Students, faculty, administration, and parents strive for higher goals in the education offered at Highland Park High School. Scots reach for the stars of their country, all fifty of them. Early morning flag raisings, Key Club speeches, and a careful study of our nation's history and heritage reflect the patriotic spirit of Hi Park youth and their concern for our national welfare.

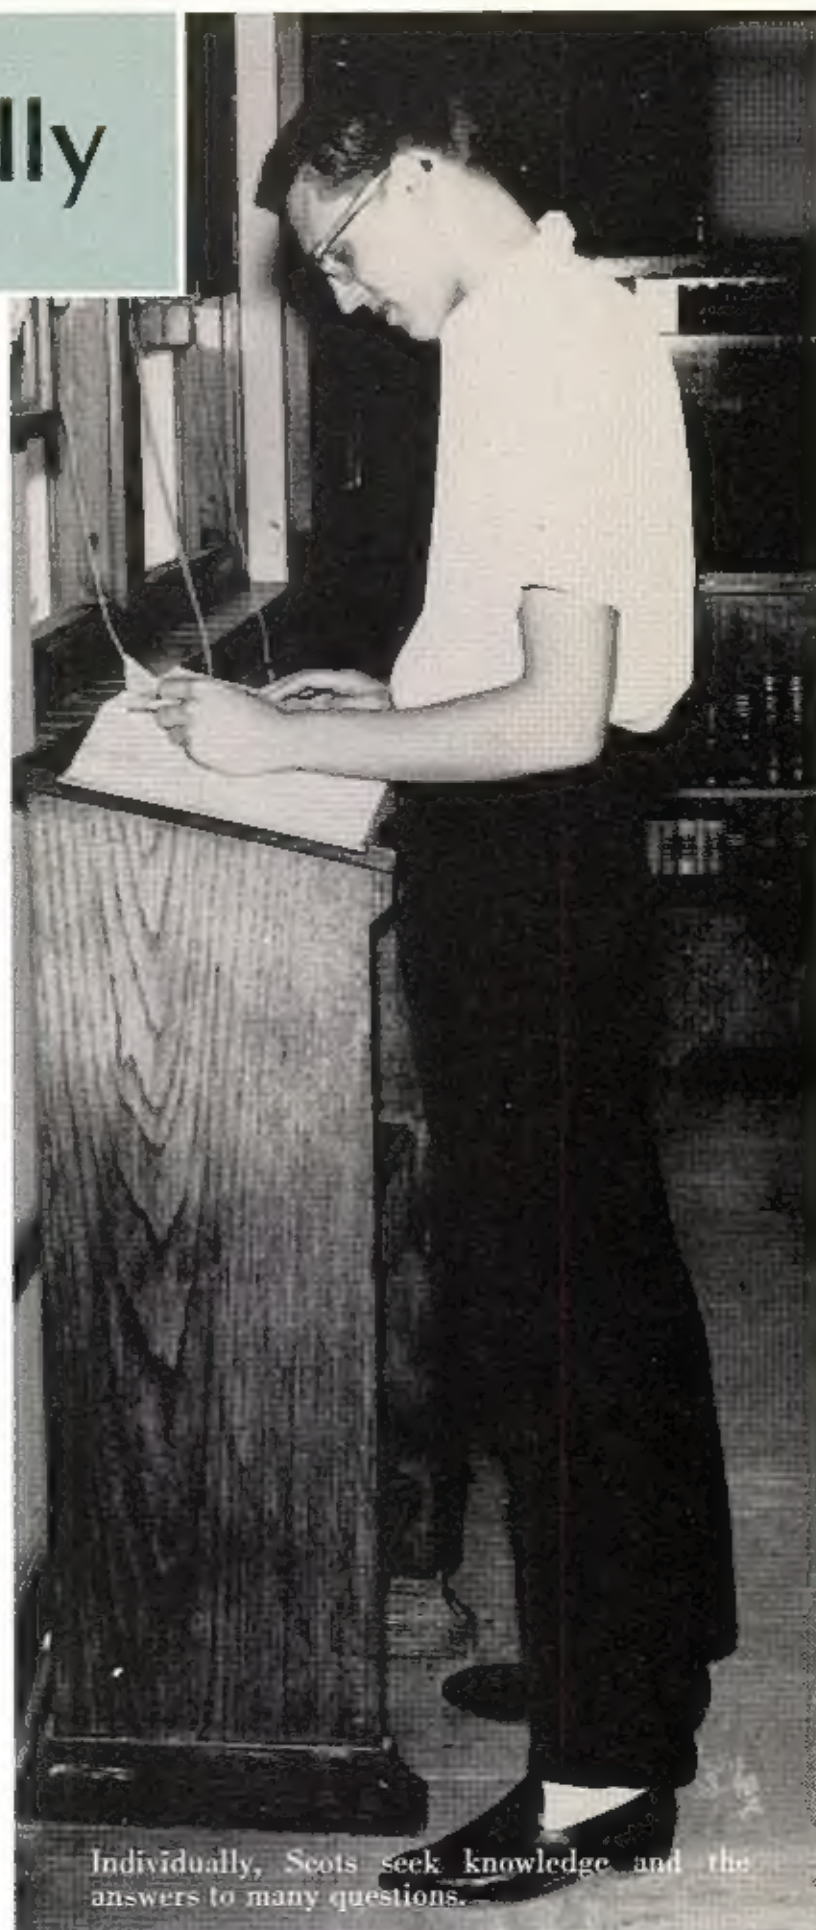

Hi Park offers many opportunities for Scots to improve their minds and characters. Through the wide range of academic courses students become acquainted with new fields of study. They begin to explore and to think for themselves.

By participating in the many organizations and societies sponsored by Hi Park, Scots form opinions, shape ideals, and expand their personalities. The sports program offers a way for Scots, both participants and spectators, to show their sportsmanship and spirit.

Scots expand and grow under the influence of a well-trained faculty. In classroom lectures, meetings, discussions, and pep talks, they share ideas and interests.

Highland Park High School is constantly growing and expanding also. In its expansion program this year Hi Park has built a new science wing which climbs to new heights in offering modern and efficient materials with which Scots further their education.

The 1962 Highlander portrays Highland Park High School and the Scots as they grow and expand, reaching for the sky.

Individually, Scots seek knowledge and the answers to many questions.

Scots Grow, Expand, Reach for the Sky

Highland Park High School is the setting for three of the happiest and most useful years of a Scot's life.

Modern Science Addition Offers Four Laboratories

Scientific achievement is one of the many facets of growth experienced by Scots. Highland Park High School has reached new heights in providing efficient equipment and modern materials for Scot students. The completion of a new science wing has called attention to the emphasis on science at Hi Park. Started in May, 1961, and completed in November, 1961, the new science addition cost over one quarter of a million dollars.

The new wing contains eight classrooms and four laboratories, accommodating the biology, chemistry, and physics departments. The biology classes are housed in two of the laboratories downstairs, and the chemistry and physics departments have laboratories on the second floor.

"Moving in" was a tedious process for students and teachers as they carried their books and equipment from the old classrooms into the new. The new wing contains many outstanding scientific features, and through the use of modern equipment Scots explore science more thoroughly and accurately.

Absorbed in a laboratory experiment, physics students Robert Cohenour, Sam Jordan, Don Smith, Teacher Leon Callihan, and John Walke test lab equipment in the new science addition.

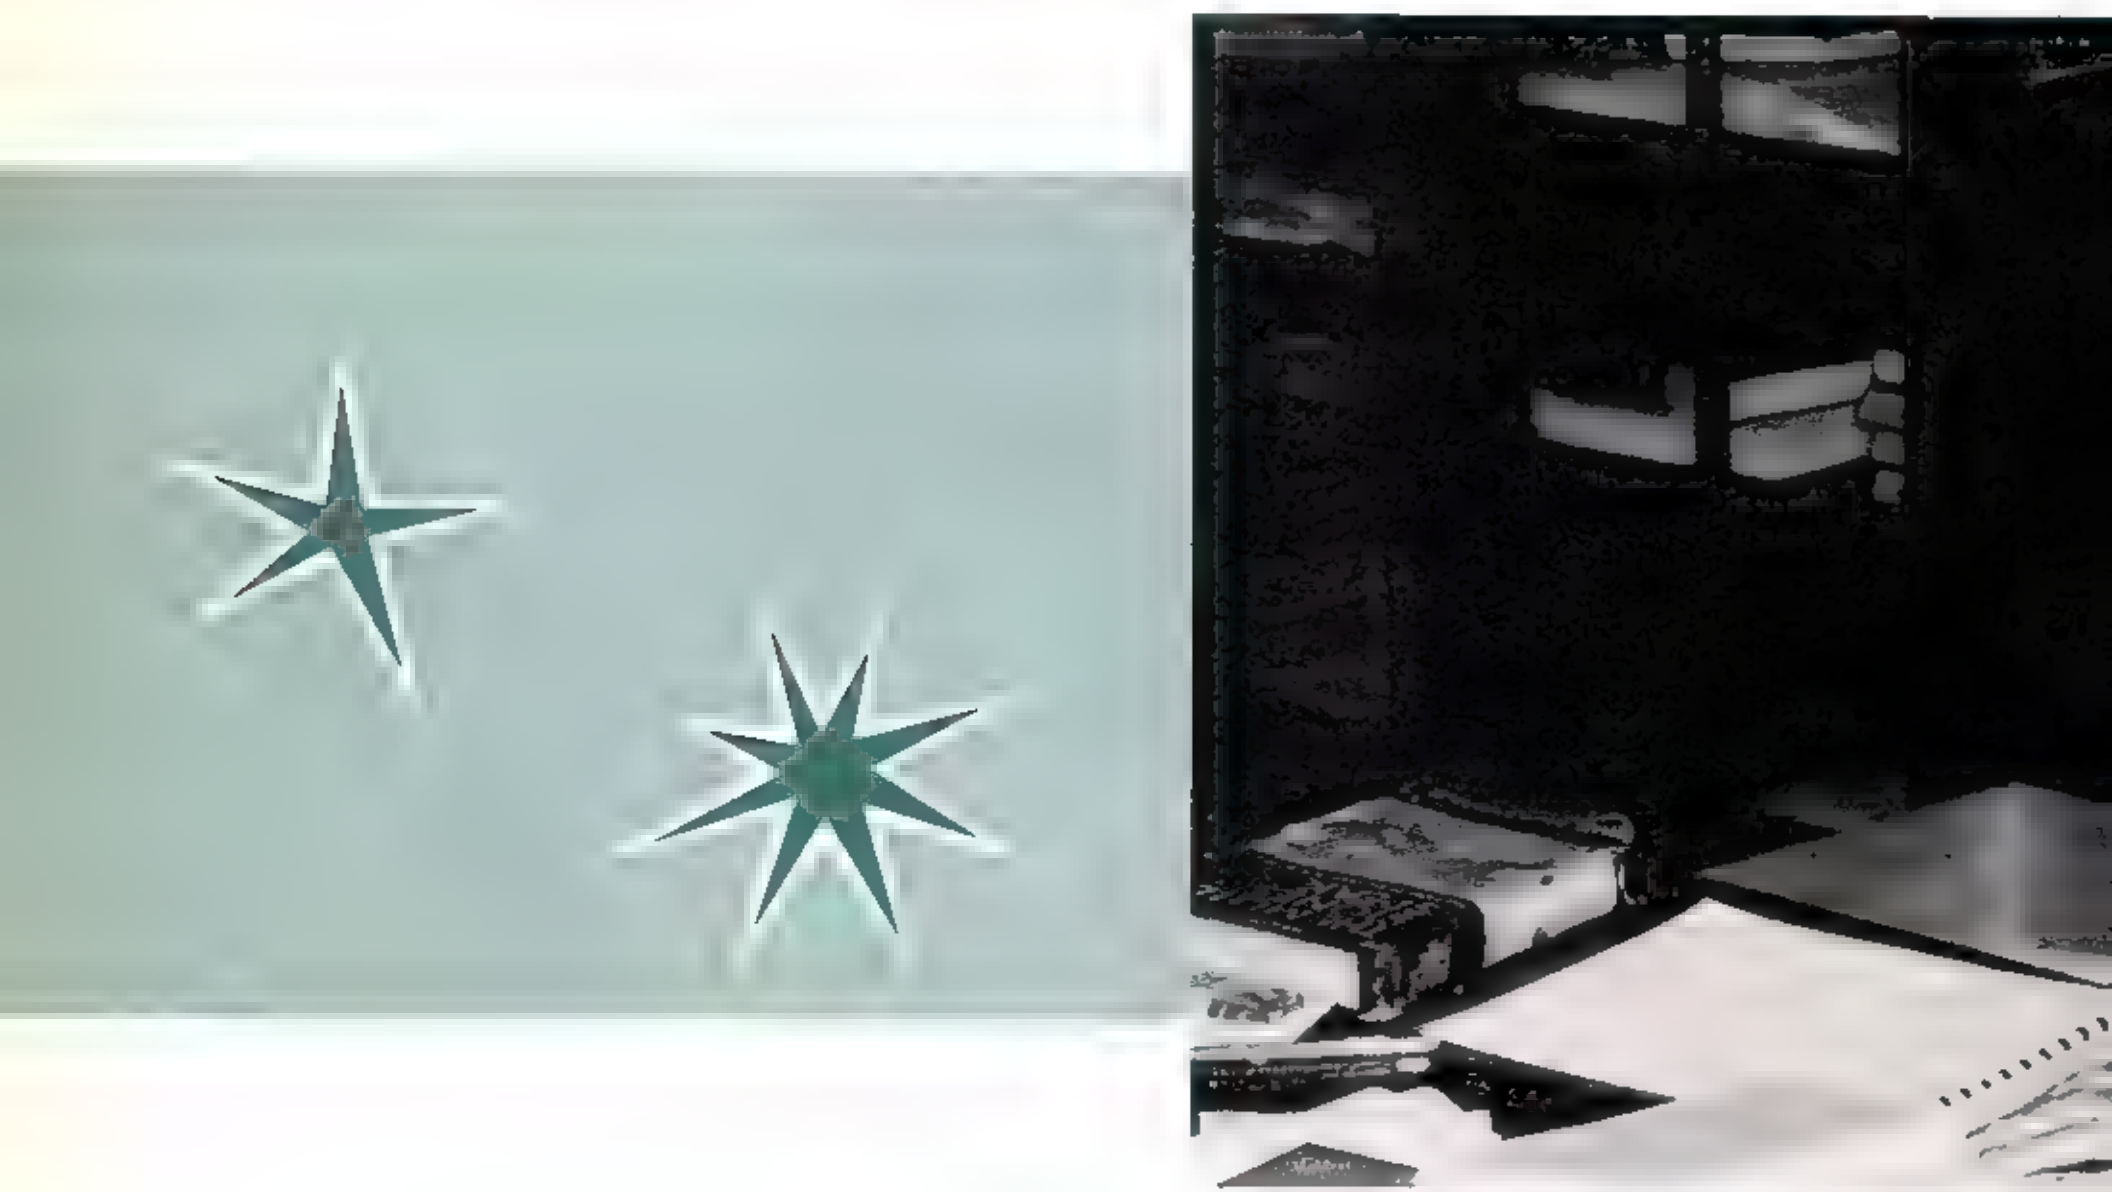

Cultural hobbies provide relaxation from professional studies.

James C. Bishop, Latin Teacher, Chosen

by Seniors as Dedicatee of 1962 Highlander

Lending color and historical insight to the study of Latin, James C. Bishop extends a warmth and humor in his classroom which radiates to each of his students. His informative and often amusing anecdotes provide sidelines to Latin and a chuckle for his students.

Mr. Bishop is a native Dallasite and a former Highland Park student. He graduated from the University of Texas and taught in Midland, Texas, before coming to Hi Park in 1958.

An avid reader, Mr. Bishop has an extensive personal library. A music lover, he collects classical record albums and particularly enjoys opera.

Mr. Bishop is a loyal supporter of the Scot football team, and even the earliest game-goers frequently find him taking tickets at Highlander Stadium for Scot home games.

In appreciation of his sparkling approach to a challenging subject, the Senior Class dedicates the 1962 Highlander to James C. Bishop.

Scots find Mr. Bishop's classroom a forum for classical learning and discussion.

Well-Trained Faculty, Administration Promote

Hi Park's versatile and well-trained faculty members constantly try to improve their own education in order to promote the better education of their students.

There are many master's degrees among the faculty members, and each summer various teachers do graduate work and attend seminars and special courses throughout the country. Many are granted scholarships to further their education.

Many teachers travel extensively during the summer. Last summer members of the faculty toured parts of Europe and Asia, as well as many states of the United States. By traveling during their vacations, teachers aid their students with a first-hand knowledge of foreign countries.

Highland Park High School's administration plans improvements in the curriculum. Elected every three years, the Board of Education aids the superintendent in supervising the Highland Park Independent School District. An important project this year was the building of new wings at the Junior and Senior high schools.

Better Education for College-Bound Scots

Modern, Well-Equipped Science Wing

Completion of a new wing at both the junior and senior high schools was the main goal of a busy year for the Board of Education. Both wings primarily contain science labs for the newly stepped-up science programs. Biology, chemistry, and physics classes will be accommodated by the science labs. Also on the agenda of the board was a raise in teachers' salaries.

The school board consists of seven members elected for three-year terms. At the meetings, held once every month, the members discuss all phases of school activities. A special report is given each month on a different aspect of the school system.

As the chief executive officer in the Highland Park Independent School District, Superintendent Frank Monroe has a great responsibility. For seven years Mr. Monroe has done an outstanding job instituting many programs of school improvement.

As superintendent Mr. Monroe works closely with the school board and the principals of the schools. He recommends methods of improvement and handles most matters concerning personnel.

Accomplishments of the school board and Mr. Monroe have helped to make Highland Park outstanding in educational opportunity.

Superintendent Monroe displays his talent for barbecuing chicken, Highland Park-style.

Administration Determines

Emphasis on the individual is stressed in the goals set up by Hi Park's principal Ben W. Wiseman. In his office he has concise data on each student. During the summer he spends time in gathering and studying this information, and when school begins in the fall, he is able to present it to the counselors and teachers.

Mr. Wiseman sees the parents of many students in the course of a year. Although he does not know each pupil personally, through his information he is able to work closely with the parents, teachers, and counselors to smooth out any difficulties a student may have. Mr. Wiseman is interested in each individual at Hi Park and wants each one to live up to his capabilities.

Since his arrival at Hi Park in 1928 he has made many outstanding achievements. Among these attainments is that of serving on the executive committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. He was also an active participant on other committees for fifteen years.

Remembering his thirty-three years at Hi Park, Mr. Wiseman gazes at Scot trophies.

Hi Park's High Standards

"Highland Park High School is certainly one of the top schools in the nation in scholastic leadership and college participation," states Vice-Principal C. D. Bowlby.

Calm and unhurried, Mr. Bowlby maintains the high goals of citizenship and scholastic endeavor for which Hi Park is famous. He manages to keep the school facilities running and still is available to consult with students who seek his help.

A training fund for teachers' use and modern scientific equipment for the reading laboratory are two of the recent projects of the Park Cities Dads' Club. This organization, composed of fathers in the Highland Park Independent School District, holds monthly meetings and aids the school system financially with many projects which taxes do not cover.

"Learning from the learned" is the goal of this year's P-TA. The parents receive expert advice on topics, such as home life, what to expect in college, and respect for the law.

Helping new sophomores, Mr. Bowlby delivers a speech at orientation.

Mr. Jeffers explains another three-dimensional geometry problem to George Hug.

"Have you met Mr. IBM, my business associate?" In the near future it is possible that such a statement will be common.

The use of "mechanical brains" will not make math an obsolete subject but an even more important one because highly complicated machines require a knowledge of advanced math. Scots gain an excellent background for this type of work in the math courses offered at Hi Park.

In preparation for the new concepts now introduced in college math, emphasis has been put on advanced math in high school. In order to make room for advanced courses, plane and solid geometry have been combined into one course.

Pupils are able to "see" geometry through the use of three dimensional figures. Other new methods of teaching and improvements on the old methods have stimulated great interest in math. Math teachers attend seminars, lectures, and classes in the summer to bring new ideas of math theory and application to Hi Park.

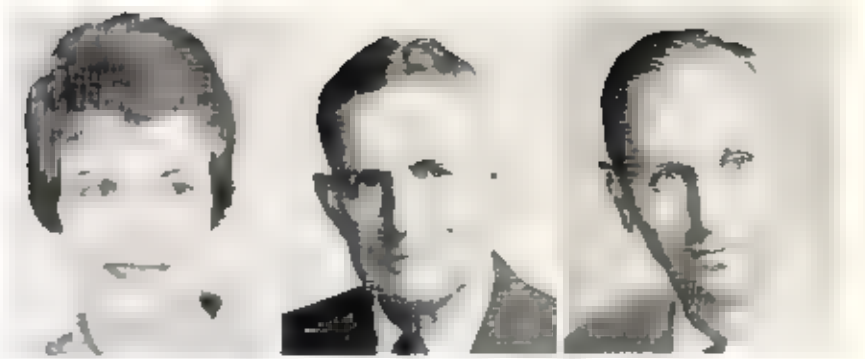

Special courses such as Slide Rule and Math 8X provide specialized instruction for those students who plan careers in the field of math.

"Scientists" Develop Reasoning Ability, Learn

Stimulation of thought, appreciation of the natural world, and improvement of the student's reasoning ability—these goals are achieved through Hi Park's comprehensive and exciting science program.

Biology students discover the organisms of living things by dissecting grasshoppers, earth worms, fish, and frogs, and by inspecting animal life through microscopes. Live animals living in aquariums, cages, and beehives are observed by the students in the biology laboratories.

Performing experiments, seeing up-to-date science films, and reading supplementary material, chemistry students gain fuller appreciation of their surrounding world. Identification of unknown substances and the study of organic chemistry are especially challenging parts of the course. In the spring semester the students participate in qualitative analysis and make special oral reports.

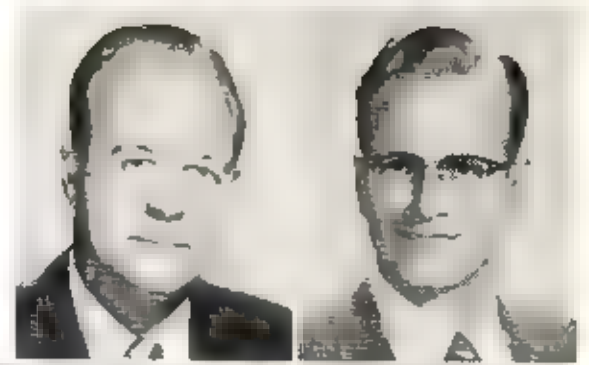

Physics relates the study of science and natural laws to the students' own world, and they begin to realize the relationships between various scientific fields and other scholastic fields. Films and experiments portray physics to the students.

Modern science laboratories in the new science wing offer students outstanding aids to the study of biology, chemistry, and physics.

Three-Year English Program Features

Concentration is essential in writing vocational themes, think junior English students Jack Corgan and Cheryl Bardowell.

English teachers Miss Stewart and Miss Anderson "sign in" before school in the main office.

Alan Richards, David Peabody, Laura Howard, and Jom McNeill find a skit an unusual approach to the study of mythology.

Grammar, Themes, Literature Appreciation

England, land of knights and kings, of Druids and playwrights . . . Discovering the rich literature of the British Isles is the climax of a three-year course in English grammar, literature, and appreciation at Highland Park High School.

Senior English centers on theme writing and literature and provides brief studies of grammar as needed by the students. The plays of Shakespeare are featured, and Macbeth is read in the senior year. Records of English poems and movies help the students visualize the feelings of the British writers.

The patriotic speeches and essays of American revolutionaries, the transcendentalist theories of Emerson, and modern democratic poetry of Whitman are among the writings explored in American literature in the junior year. The study of literature is paralleled with historical backgrounds. Grammar is mastered, and students write research themes on vocations.

Sophomore English balances an intensive study of grammar with a selective course in the literature of many countries. The new Scots delve into mythology, and many classes present mythological plays and skits. Julius Caesar is read, and then a movie version of the play is seen. Themes on fire prevention are written in both the sophomore and senior years.

Journalism, which studies the use of feature and news writing and other elements of news work, promotes its pupils to a reporter's position on the Bagpipe in the second semester of the course.

Through pantomimes, short speeches, and skits, students enrolled in Speech I gain self-confidence. The speech department trains Speech 3 students in stage techniques and skills when they put on one-act plays. This year, for the first time, the speech department has sponsored a Hi Park debate team which competes with teams from other schools.

Terry Roeder, Guy Sterling, and Glenn Lewis prove that advertising is fun, even in Spanish.

Tape Recorders, Dialogues Aid Language

Escapades of wandering conquistadores, traditional customs of romantic Frenchmen, historical accounts of the early Roman Empire . . . a glimpse of the past and a strong tie with the modern world are brought to life.

New and exciting methods are used by Scot language teachers to present invaluable knowledge to Spanish, French and Latin scholars.

Tape recordings of native Frenchmen improve the pronunciation of French students. With the correct accent in the mind of each Scot, he memorizes dialogues and presents them to the class.

Hi Park's "Spaniards" gain an appreciation of our neighbors south of the border through speeches, plays, and literature; and advanced classes extend their study to the Spanish short story and novel. Highlighting group projects are after-school gatherings at which various class members relate their experiences "down South."

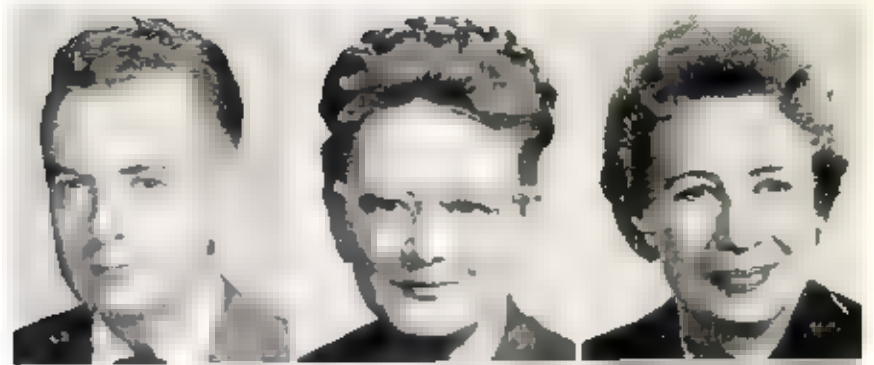

Practicing songs and the pledge of allegiance in their ancient language gives Latin students an opportunity to experiment with newly-acquired knowledge. Second-year students study Greek and Latin drama, and third-year students sit in on Cicero's speeches to the Roman senate.

The Latin Club, composed of third and fourth-year students, meets every fourth Friday of the month and provides various class programs and films to interested Scots.

From "The Witchcraft Craze" to "Davy Crockett: Texas Patriot" range the many fascinating term theme topics which demand the time, talents, and patience of American history students.

Hours of research, note-taking, and planning are necessary to draft a term theme, required in both semesters of American history. Weekly library reports and outside reading also contribute to the study of our nation's political, social, and economic history.

World history students explore man's history from the earliest time to the present day. Movies and slides are seen, portraying lost civilizations to the students. The bulletin board in the world history classroom is filled with pictures and clippings of far-off times and places studied by the Scots. In most classes of both American and world history one period each week is devoted to current events when students are able to discuss current problems and relate them to the study of history.

Government, required this year by state law, explains the functions of good government to Scots and stresses the rights of the individual. Economics studies the American free enterprise system, and in both courses a comparison of democracy and communism is discussed and emphasized.

At the end of their one-semester course, commercial law students participate in a mock trial, putting into use the elements of everyday law which they have learned.

In the near future the welfare and safety of the United States and perhaps of the world depends on its youth. Following the pattern of physical fitness and preparedness now being set on the national level, Hi Park's physical education department promotes fitness of mind, spirit, and body.

With the recent emphasis on the military strength of the United States, the Reserve Officers Training Corps has become increasingly important. All types of military procedure are taught. Practice on the rifle range is the favorite of many cadets. This training includes instruction in accuracy in shooting and on the types and parts of the gun.

By encouraging wrecklessness and discouraging recklessness, Hi Park's safety education program promotes safe and courteous driving. To combat the shocking death toll on the nation's highways, the course teaches the meaning and importance of traffic laws and the "insides" of a car.

Physical education classes not only fulfill the health and recreational needs of students, but also give a view of the mental, social, and emotional aspects of life. Teamwork is stressed. Intramurals allow girls to enjoy sports outside of gym class.

Clicking typewriters, aromas from the home economics kitchen, frantic operetta rehearsals in the spring—Behind these familiar scenes at Hi Park lie the goals of the fine arts and vocational departments—to develop skills, knowledge, and intelligent attitudes for successful transaction of business.

Civil Service exams in the spring highlight the year for Typing 3 students. During the course they have received practice while typing in the school offices. Other classes learn to type "pictures" for enjoyment. The use of a tape recorder aids shorthand classes to become fluent in the shorthand "language."

Music theory is taught in all music classes through ear-training and simple analysis of records. Using these fundamentals, the Lads and Lassies present many assemblies and away-from-school programs throughout the year, climaxing in the operetta, presented with the help of the orchestra, which also gives fall and spring concerts.

The Highlandaires present an assembly in the fall and participate in the Christmas program. The band sparks Scot spirit at football games, marches in parades, and presents assembly programs during the year.

Artistic Scots contribute much to the atmosphere of many of Hi Park's dramatic and musical productions by designing scenery and sets. Posters, paintings, murals, and other forms of art work are also designed by the art classes.

Homemaking, wood shop, metal shop, and mechanical drawing give future workers a sample of these careers.

Librarians Assist Theme-Ridden Scots

Book covers are opened . . . and another aspiring Scot begins the journey to adventure or seeks the answers to his college-bound curiosities.

Hi Park's library houses a storehouse of knowledge for the term-theme writer, the seeker of vocational statistics, or the reader of good books. Efficient librarians aid in the convenience and enjoyment of library use and have saved many procrastinators from their self-made fate.

Within the doors of Hi Park's counseling offices, Scots find indispensable aid for bewildered future collegiates making important choices. The information and guidance gained from this source have proven invaluable to every Scot and have been greatly responsible for the fact that 97% of all Hi Park graduates enter college.

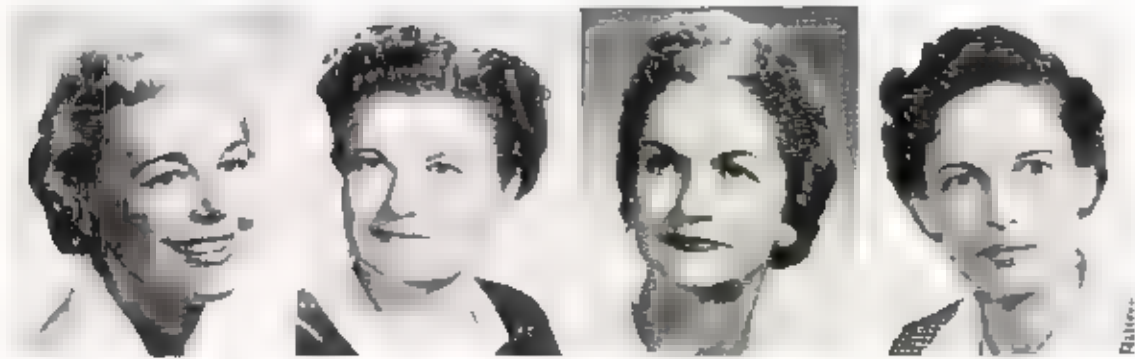

Hi Park's secretaries and registrars help students in countless ways every day of the week, ranging from issuing slips to admit "late-sleepers" to class, to keeping important office files.

Scots Grow Educationally, Socially Through

Rounding out a well-planned scholastic and social program is Hi Park's large variety of extracurricular activities.

Educational and entertaining assemblies presented by various organizations throughout the year offer an opportunity for students to learn outside of the classroom.

Scots enrich their social growth through pep rallies, sports events, and dances. Through these they learn about getting along with and enjoying other people. The Student Council sponsors Homecoming, the Christmas Dance, and the Junior-Senior Prom, while Hi Lites sponsor two dances each year in the fall and spring.

Scots who excel in extracurricular activities are honored in the Hall of Fame. Members of the Student Council, and pep rally committee, Highlander, and Bagpipe who have done outstanding work are eligible to receive a Gold "H," Silver "H," or Honorable Mention. Favorites are elected by the entire student body and appear with the Hall of Fame in the Highlander in the spring.

Carpenters Build Up Hi Park; Summer School

"School is out!" The cry rang joyfully through Hi Park halls, and echoed lingeringly—for three days. Then its happiness was stilled by the appearance of glum Scot faces returning to summer school.

Outside, the dazzling sun was shining, and less industrious Scots slept, splashed, sailed, skied, played tennis and golf, and had parties, parties, parties!

Lazing at home and playing in the sun were not the only other Scot occupations, though. Summer jobs and vacations took time also. Energetic Student Council members participated in a week of fun and hard work at the Student Council Workshop. Creaks and moans were heard from the cheerleaders as they learned how to spark Scot spirit at the SMU Cheer-leading School.

Scot gridders sweated and labored to get into shape for the fall. Meanwhile, lassies looked on with pity and brought food and feminine companionship to encourage the players.

Sounds of hammering and sawing filled the air as the new wing steadily progressed. Soon these noises combined with those of laughter as Scot carpenters readied the gym for the first pep rally and built the float for mascot Pam Hudnall's debut.

As summer drew to a close, sophomores began to get that well-known tingling feeling as they contemplated the first big day at high school. Even Scot old-timers who professed dread at the idea of returning to school began to turn their thoughts toward the work and fun coming at Hi Park in the year ahead and saw possibilities in the new-found sophistication of seniorhood.

Sporting Sunburns, Scots Return to School

With a flourish and a flurry Scots, old and new, trooped back to tackle their studies with renewed enthusiasm. Sophomores became acquainted with Hi Park at orientation held a few days before school began. Clubs and organizations solicited membership, held elections, and plunged into the year's activities. Orchestra, band, and choruses began to plan their programs, and Student Council representatives were elected. The Student Council then elected Ann Mercer and Len Vaughn as vice president and treasurer. Highlander and Bagpipe staff members received their assignments and started to work. The whole school seemed bursting with activity, not the least of which was the work on the soon-to-be-completed science wing.

Spirit invaded the school in the form of spirit slogans on every bulletin board, and seniors and sophomores alike responded with traditional Scot enthusiasm. At pep rallies and football games Scot mascot Pam Hudnal helped lead cheers like a professional.

Spooks, Football Caravans, Fair Holiday

To Scots at Highland Park, October, the month of spooks, was a month of spirit and enthusiasm.

Orange and black, blue and gold served as October's colors. Orange and black represented Halloween, while blue and gold were the colors worn on the annual Color Day when Scots showed the team that they were behind them.

Scots found spiritual guidance in the three religious talks during Religious Emphasis Week climaxed by a program of sacred music provided by the Lads and Lassies Choir.

Scot-land organizations found October a busy month. Hi-Lites entertained members and their mothers at the annual Mother-Daughter Tea. The orchestra participated in the annual Music Day at the State Fair of Texas. Hi Park journalists attended the Southwest Journalism Forum at TCU.

Many students took advantage of the year's first holiday as they attended the 1961 State Fair.

Scots Offer Thanks For Many Blessings

Invigorating autumn air spurred Scots to work and play harder than ever in the bright November sunshine.

The strains of "Misty" and "Exodus" played at the orchestra assembly ushered November in. Then Scots picked up a faster beat and gyrated to the newest dance craze, the Twist, at the Hi-Lite American Bandstand Dance.

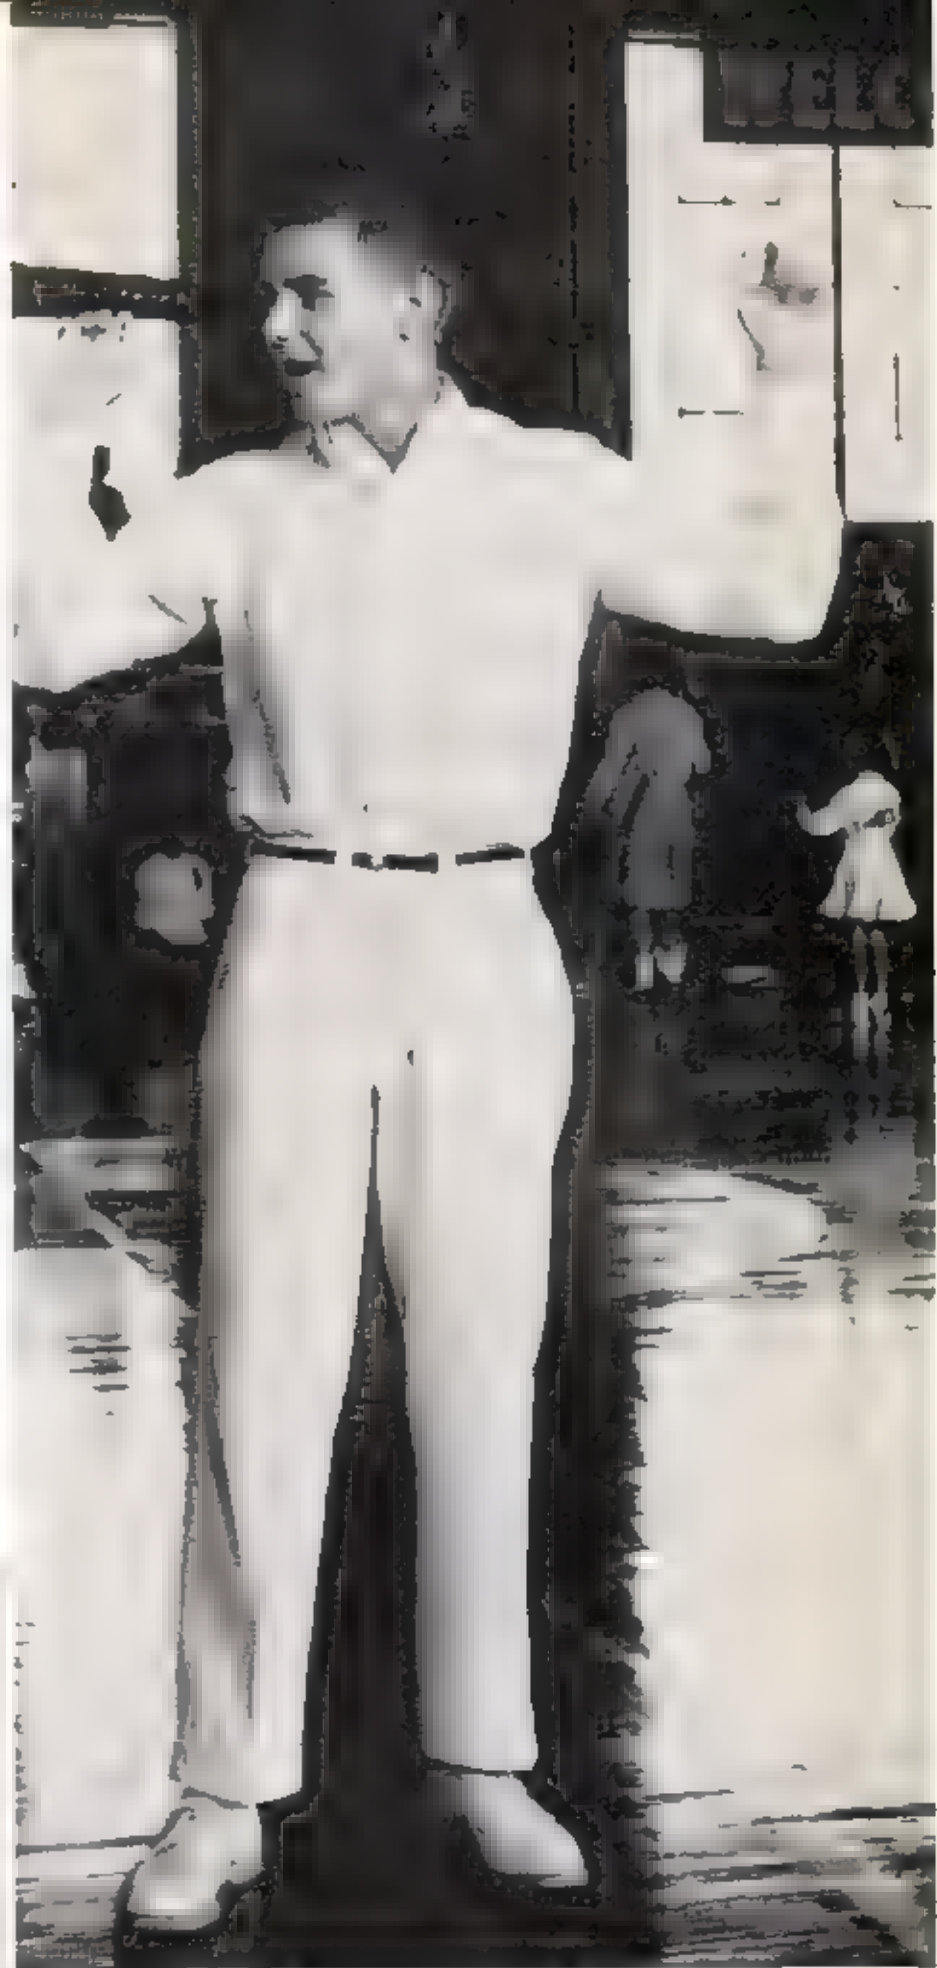

Juniors prepared to enter the exalted state of Senior-dom by ordering senior rings. The National Honor Society admitted 14 new members.

Both the Pep Rally committee and the ROTC worked feverishly, the former dreaming up skits and the latter planning for the Regimental Ball.

Thanksgiving holidays brought food, fun, and frolic for Scots. November ended on a note of anticipation as Hi Park seniors in vocational guidance meetings prepared for the careers to come.

"H-I-P-A-R-K!" spells out cheerleader Ben Hill at the last district football pep rally.

"Fe, fi, fo, fum, I smell a turkey!" declares John Walke to his sister Frances, Thanksgiving cook.

Mistletoe, Santa Claus, Christmas Cheer

Christmas joy filled the halls of Hi Park in December. As Scots eagerly awaited the holidays, special yuletide activities filled their time.

The annual Student Council Christmas Dance transformed the girl's gym into a ski lodge, Mr. Kidd played Santa Claus at the publications party, and members of the National Honor Society feasted at a progressive dinner.

The basketball team crowned Susie Howell Queen, and the football "B" team had their annual banquet, ending a 7-2 season.

The Band presented a program, and the Orchestra together with the Lads and Lassies and Highlandaires portrayed a "Winter Wonderland" for the PTA and Dads' Club as well as the student body.

Members of the publications staffs spent several days at the THSPA Convention and walked off with first place awards for both Bagpipe and Highlander. In addition, Judy Downs copped the first place in the individual news story division and four other students received honorable mentions.

As the holidays began, Scots scattered to spend their vacations at home or far away.

Susan Nagle and Carolyn Pratt lead singing Highlandaires into the auditorium to join the Lads and Lassies in their Christmas program.

Gridsmen, Romans Feast at Banquets

Unexpected snowfall relieved January exam cramming by two extra holidays. Students breathlessly watched their televisions not for the world news but for school news.

The School Board and superintendent made the big decision to close the schools. As a result Scots had to come on a Saturday to get their report cards.

At the annual football banquet the Golden Avalanche chose David Shuford and Doug Urquhart to lead the Scot football team in 1962. Hi Park then launched a vigorous campaign to back the basketball team, which entered into its district competition.

Juniors and seniors in Roman togas auctioned off underclassmen slaves at the annual Latin Banquet held in January.

After the holidays and exams Scots settled down to work with their new semester resolutions.

"Just like in the days of Rome," muses Pat Maley, clad in a Roman toga at the annual Latin banquet.

Holiday-Filled February Marks Celebration

February, 1962, was stamped into the memory of Scots as the month when Lt. Col. John Glenn made his historic orbits of the earth while America waited and prayed.

As the second semester came into full swing, Scots settled down to studies and enjoyment of the February holidays, Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday, and especially Valentine's Day passed with appropriate celebrations.

Seniors elected their class officers: Len Vaughn, president; John Crotty, vice-president; Kathy Holden, treasurer; Ellen Gay, secretary; and James Bishop, sponsor. Miss Riley announced the senior play, "My Three Angels;" and tryouts for the spring musical, "Annie Get Your Gun," were held.

For the seventh straight year all the National Merit Semi-finalists became Finalists.

At the Spring Regimental Ball Sally Ann Jalonick was crowned queen.

Spring sports—swimming, golf, track, and tennis—began, and the Hi Park basketball team finished its season with a tie for second place in district competition.

Homecoming Queen Reigns at Sherman Game

"Opening Night," theme of the 1961 Homecoming dance, was highlighted by marquees on each basketball backboard, where the five nominees' names were mounted "in lights."

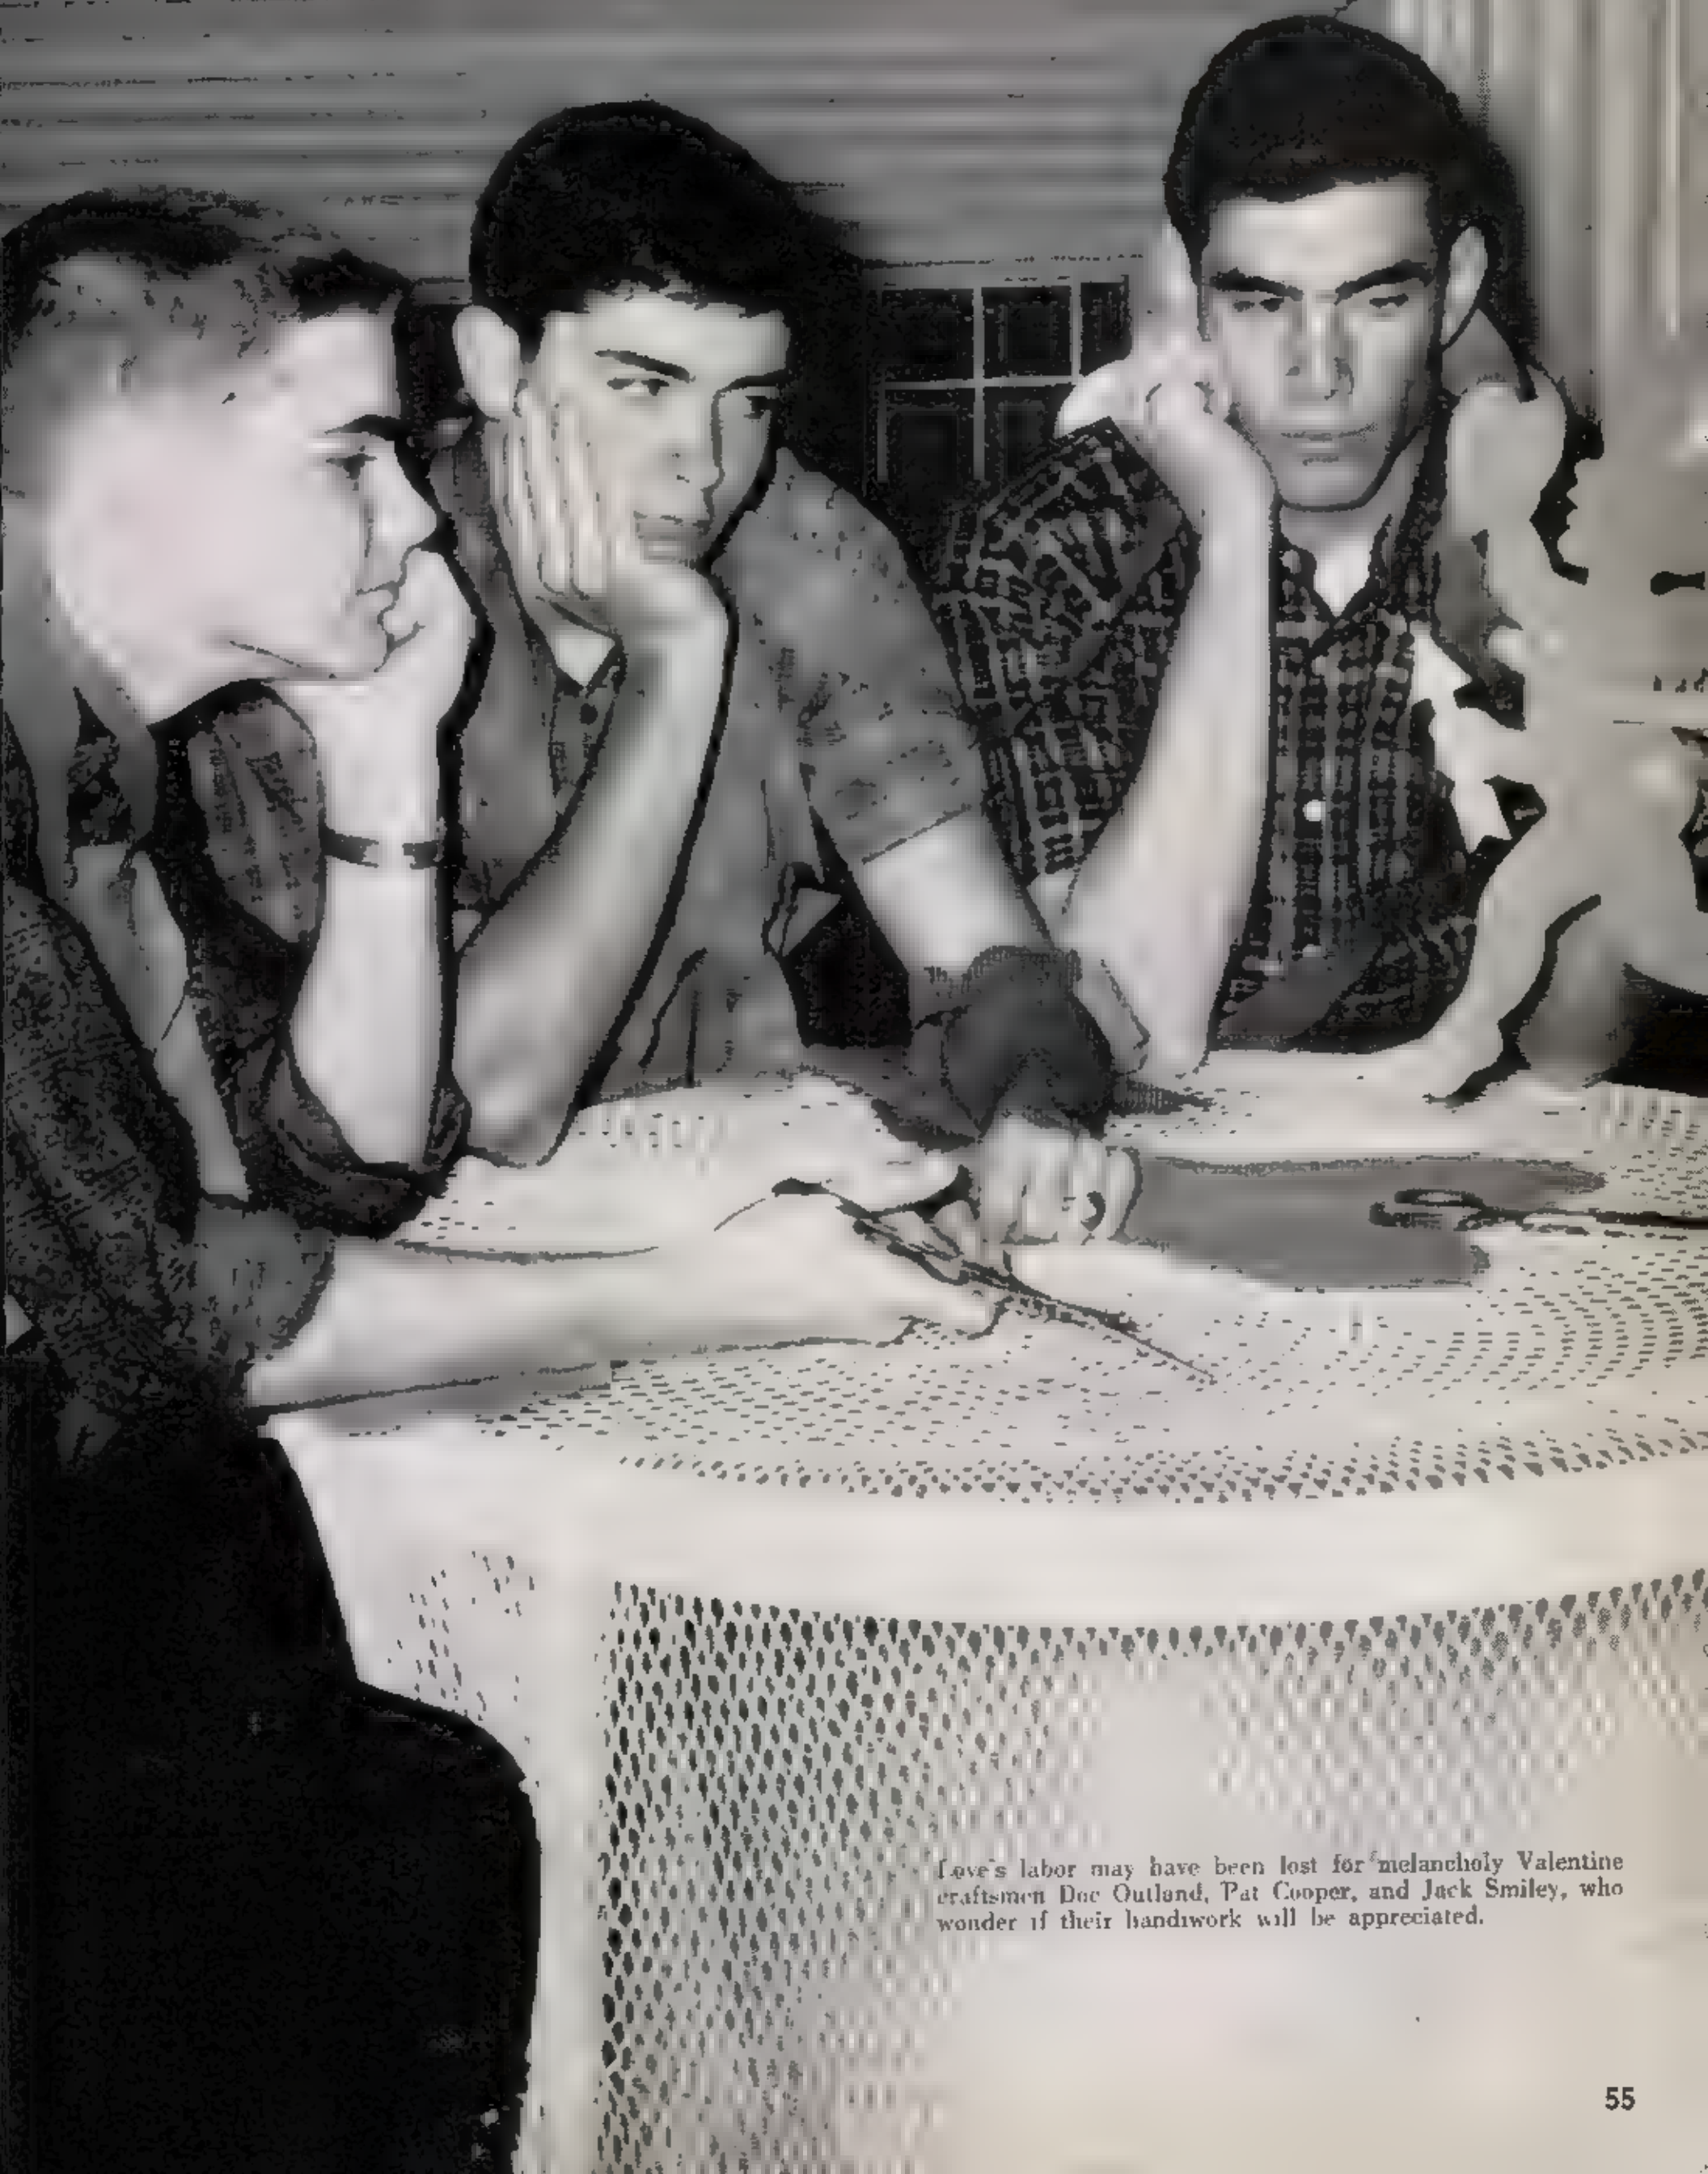

The Scots, revengeful after last year's upset, triumphed over Sherman, 22-12. During the halftime the five nominees were driven around the field in convertibles. Nominated by the football team and elected by the student body, the 1961 Homecoming Queen was Suzee Austin. Other nominees were Mary Glen Joy, Patsy Murph, Ellen Gay, and Sally Ann Jalonick.

At the dance after the game the nominees were presented to the tune of their favorite song, and Suzee was crowned by Gordon Wheeler, president of the Student Council, who presented her with a dozen American Beauty roses.

The Homecoming festivities were planned and organized by a Student Council committee headed by Vice-President Anne Mercer and Treasurer Len Vaughn.

The thrill of a lifetime is experienced by Homecoming Queen Suzee Austin, escorted by Buzzy Waters, as she is presented to cheering Scots at the Homecoming dance, October 27.

Student Council, Rally Committee Recognized

Ribbons committee chairman Doc Outland and Secretary Anne Simpson add up the profits of Thursday's spirit-ribbon selling.

Outstanding contributors to the functioning of the Student Council and Pep Rally Committee and to the publication of the Highlander and Bagpipe are recognized by membership in the honorary Hall of Fame. The students' names are kept secret and are announced at the Senior Honor Assembly at the last of May.

Student Council and Pep Rally Committee winners are chosen by the sponsors, as are the Highlander and Bagpipe staffers.

There are six maximum officer's awards given to the president and secretary of the Student Council, editors and business managers of the Highlander and Bagpipe. These organizations also confer various Gold "H," Silver "H," and Honorable Mention awards on deserving Scots.

Before a Monday-morning Student Council meeting Sponsor Ann Clinton and President Gordon Wheeler plan the schedule and strategy.

AFS, Rotary Sponsor Scot Foreign Students

Norwegian Yngve Hanisch presents his imitation of a Texas cowboy as Jack Smiley and Pam Hudnall laugh in a pop rally.

Sharing the life and customs of their countries and learning much about America, three American Field Service exchange students and one Rotary International student attended Hi Park this year and lived with Scot families. During the summer Sue Wheeler went to Finland.

The AFS students were Marisa Fugali, from Genoa, Italy. Yngve Hanisch, from Oslo, Norway, and Lena Mavroukaky, from Athens, Greece. Claes Lauritzen, from Varborg, Sweden, is a Rotary student.

The foreign students are honorary members of the Student Council and Round Table, and they are recognized in a halftime show by the band in the fall.

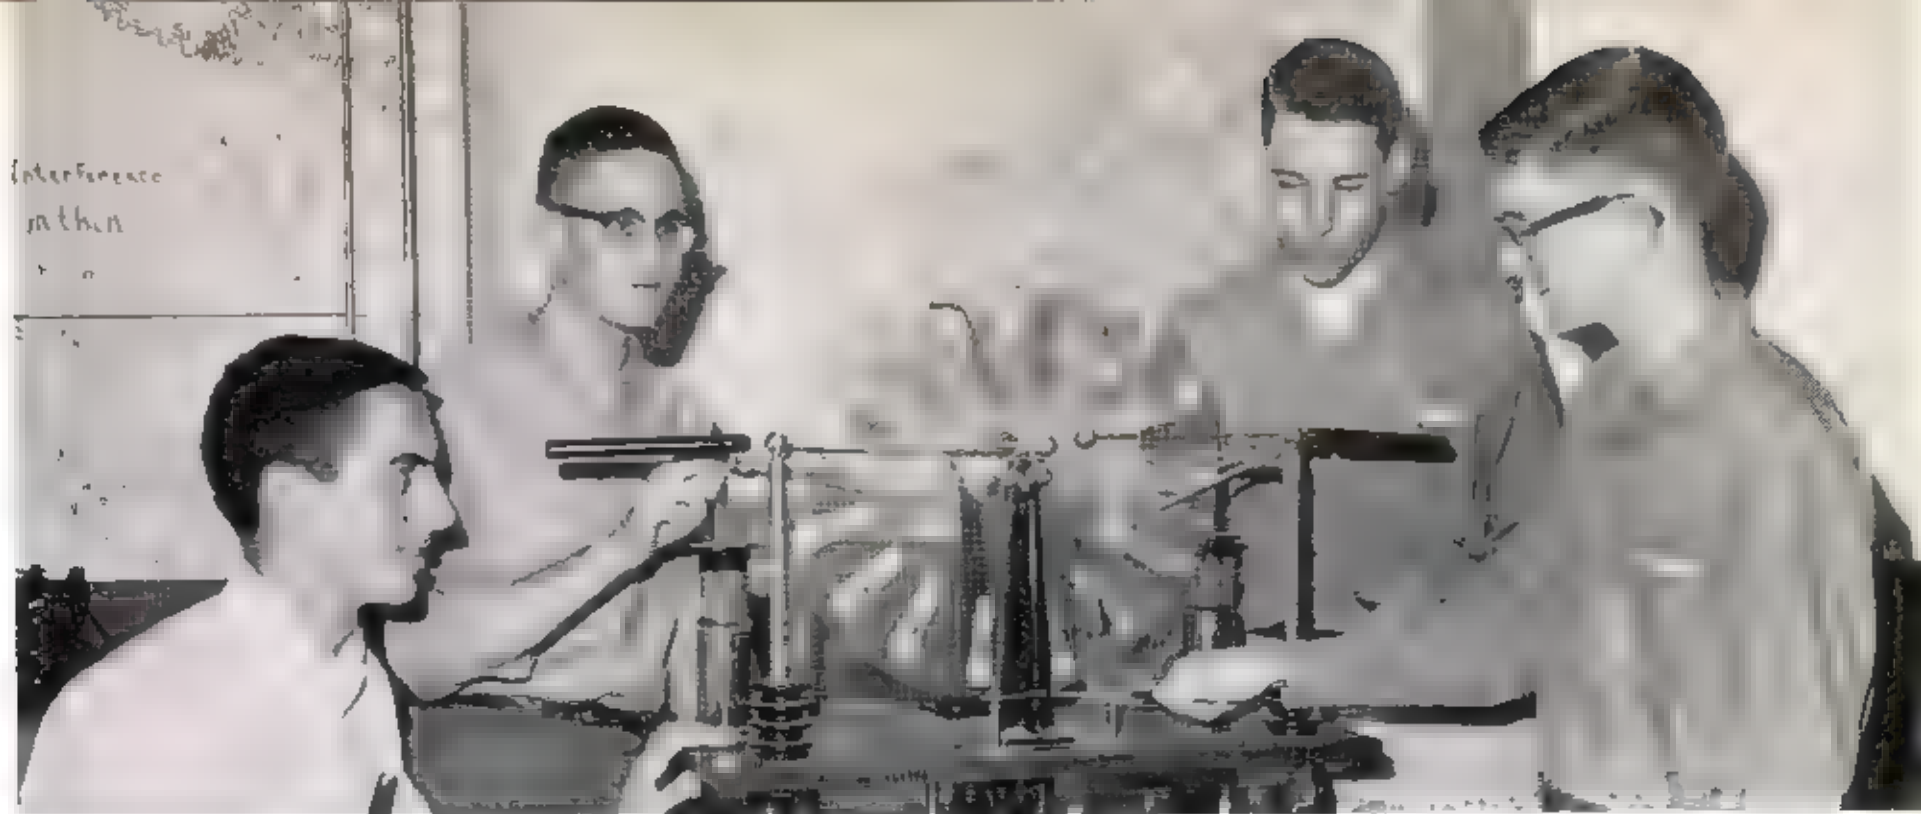

Claes Lauritzen and Marianna Smith experiment with that new American dance craze, the "Twist."

Marisa Fugali and Rusty Richards discover that dancing is the international language at the Hi-Lites American Bandstand dance in November.

Sue Wheeler, Hi Park's exchange student to Finland, admires Lena Mavroukaky's Greek velvet jacket.

National Merit Finalist Gordon Wheeler explains a static electricity machine to fellow physics students and Finalists Peter Guy, Sam Jordan, and Rusty Richards.

14 Hi Park Seniors Named NMS Finalists

Scots who wish to qualify for National Merit Scholarships and those offered by 115 NMS affiliated organizations take a qualifying test in their junior year.

The results of these tests are distributed by the senior counselors, and those who become semi-finalists are announced in the fall. Finalists are announced during the spring semester of their senior year. Approximately 10,000 students throughout the county are named as semi-finalists, and Hi Park claims 14 this year.

Letters of Commendation are also awarded by the National Merit Corporation to students who received high scores on their tests. Twenty Scots will have Letters of Commendation sent to two colleges of their choice. These are Bob Ashley, James Browning, Lee Carter, Robert Cohenour, Sharon Coursey, David Dalton, and Ellen Gay.

Sanford Graham, Sally Hansen, Sue Harris, Gary Harvison, Bill Johnson, Carey King, and Ford Lacy were also commended.

Bill Manewal, Robert Nichols, Robert Sink, Pam Stufflebeme, Michael Turner, and Frances Winston also received letters.

French scholars, Finalists Sue Wheeler, Janice Ford, and Sara Evans, practice verbs in their classroom. Not pictured: Jim Harp.

Finalists Sandra Allen, Sheila Carr, Judy Downs, Bert Moore, and Pat Jordan discuss poetry in the English 8x classroom.

Hi Park Extracurricular Organization

From the lively girls in a Hi-Lite meeting to the solemn initiation ceremonies of the National Honor Society and the Quill and Scroll, variety is the keynote of Hi Park's organizations. The nineteen clubs and societies feature a wide range of social and educational activities and service projects.

The Student Council stresses student government, and representatives are elected each semester to administrate many of Scotland's activities. The Key Club, honor society for junior and senior boys, studies our nation's liberties and brings many facts about the country's welfare to the attention of the student body. The Round Table, meeting after school, discusses subjects from the pros and cons of college fraternities to the discussion of national and world crises.

Four vocational clubs, the ROTC, and two hobby clubs offer a chance to learn more about fields in which Scots are interested. The publications staffs put out a bi-weekly newspaper and a yearbook and give practical training to future journalists. Musical Scots find a place to share their talents in the band, orchestra, Lads and Lassies, and other choral groups.

Student Council Transforms Gymnasium Into

Colorful ornaments bedecked a giant tree which towered over huge baskets of canned goods. To Scots the annual Student Council-sponsored Christmas dance meant more than the celebration of forthcoming holidays. It meant sharing with others in the season of giving. The canned goods were sent to the Salvation Army, climaxing a year of service projects sponsored by the Council.

Juicy red apples and candy canes were sent as birthday greetings to Hi Park teachers. Traditional sports ribbons and football caravan tickets were sold to keep Scot spirit at its highest peak, and the publication of the Clan furnished a student directory for anxious Scots. The Homecoming dance and Junior-Senior Prom added a touch of gaiety to a year packed with business activities.

Meetings are held each Monday morning, with an hour meeting the first week of every month. The Council's president, secretary, three senior reps, and two junior reps are elected in the spring; and other members are elected from second-period classes at the beginning of each semester. Sponsors for the organization are Miss Eleanor Thornell and Miss Faye Ann Clinton.

High attainments of scholarship, leadership, service, and character determine membership in Hi Park's National Honor Society chapter, sponsored by Miss Mary D. Hardin.

With these achievements as a basis, the faculty selects fifteen per cent of the high senior class, seven per cent of the low senior class, and three per cent of the high junior class for entrance into the National Honor Society. New members are initiated in the fall and spring.

Among the activities of the organization are a fall progressive dinner and a spring picnic. Ushers for baccalaureate services, commencement exercises, and the senior play are chosen from underclassmen members.

Climaxing the year's honors is the presentation of the Blanket Award to the most outstanding girl and boy in the graduating class.

Chosen from the Bagpipe and Highlander staffs, members must have done outstanding work on either publication for one semester, rank scholastically in the upper third of their class, and be juniors.

The lighting of the candles of truth, loyalty, enlightenment, opportunity, initiative, leadership, and friendship marks the spring and fall initiation of new members.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Mary Stewart, the organization conducts a welfare project at Christmas and a progressive dinner in the spring. Charms and pins are also worn to denote membership in this honorary group of journalists.

Struggling through rain, snow, and hail, the early-rising members of the Bagpipe staff produce a bi-weekly paper for news-hungry Scots.

No sooner do Scots receive their Bagpipe than the wheels begin rolling to produce the next edition. The first week after publication is spent in thinking of new story ideas and assigning them to industrious reporters and staff members.

The second week is devoted to copy reading, correcting and revising, and finally taking the paper to the printer. Work crews meet before and after school to get the Bagpipe ready for publication.

Staff members are chosen through journalism classes and Bairns, a course in newspaper writing taught by Miss Peggy O'Sullivan, Bagpipe sponsor. Bairns meets on Wednesday afternoons during the second semester, and offers valuable experience in editorial and feature writing, and in the mechanics of newspaper reporting.

At the fall convention of the Texas High School Press Association this year the Bagpipe was awarded top ratings in its division of schools with similar enrollment.

Group Discusses Freedom, Foreign Crises

Tablers Kathie Davis and Sandra Mellow do extensive research to prepare for a Round Table discussion.

"Nuclear Testing" and "A Shakespearean Study" were two of the thought-provoking topics discussed this year by the Round Table, Hi Park's discussion group.

One of the objectives of the Round Table was to discuss a national or world affair one week and a social or cultural problem the next. In these discussions the Tablers tried to present all sides of a subject, then arrive at all possible solutions or conclusions.

New, also, this year was Hi Park's debate team. This team presented a debate on "Federal Aid to Education" at a Round Table meeting, and the following week the Tablers discussed the pros and cons presented by the teams.

The Tablers also took time off for fun. Last fall they gathered at Flag Pole Hill for a picnic, and in the spring they held a banquet.

The Tablers are representatives of all faiths and of all grade levels. They are chosen from written applications by a faculty committee, headed by Mrs. Jo Pettigrew, the Round Table sponsor. The main qualifications are interest, an open mind, and the will to learn.

Vice-president Bill Johnson presents "A Crime Report" to a second-period English class.

"To 'sell' America with positive patriotism" is the main goal of the Key Club this year.

The club began fulfilling its aim with Constitution Appreciation Week. For three days members presented short speeches during the morning devotionals. A "Crime Report" taken from J. Edgar Hoover was presented to the English classes. In January the club gave a "Report on World Affairs" showing the students events on other parts of the globe.

On George Washington's birthday the Key Club tried to impress the students that while Washington did so much to better our country, we should do more to help the cause of freedom. The club concluded their campaign at the annual open house program.

The members of the Key Club, boys in their junior and senior years, are selected by teachers on the basis of outstanding character and work in social studies. The club is sponsored by Ralph Binnion and Leldon Blackmon.

Peter Zenger, James Otis, and J. Edgar Hoover, typical courageous leaders of our country, were honored by the Lads and Lassies and the Key Club at their "Our American Heritage" assembly. This program, lauding our nation's freedom and its makers, was the first ever to be presented through the joint effort of both the Lads and Lassies and the Key Club.

Other outstanding Lads and Lassies programs this year were the inspirational assembly concluding Religious Emphasis Week, the joyful Christmas program, and the Easter production. The Lads and Lassies displayed their talents not only for singing but also for dancing and acting in their presentation of the musical, "Annie Get Your Gun."

The choir spread good will through music outside of school and presented programs to the Lighthouse for the Blind, the Goodwill Industries, and the Rotary Club.

Amidst practicing, planning, and programming, the members relaxed for a Sadie Hawkins picnic in the fall and a banquet in the spring.

Welfare, School Parties High-Light Activities

Modeling and rock-and-roll were the extremes of Hi-Lite activities this year, as members profited from an instruction on charm and attended dances.

The year began with the traditional Big-Little Sister Picnic, where incoming sophomores met the upperclassmen. At the Mother-Daughter Tea the mothers had a chance to become acquainted with each other. Hi-Lites brought Christmas cheer to children at the Dallas Wesley Community Center by giving them a party complete with presents and tree. At the spring dance the Hi-Lite king was elegantly crowned, and the year was brought to a close by a song-infested banquet at which next year's officers were announced and the "social-climbing" ladder presented.

Hi-Lites, meeting each Tuesday, is open to all girls in school. Sponsors are Mrs. Donna Fischer, Miss Carrie Inmon, and Miss Roberta Raithel.

Lectures, Slides Inform Travel-Minded Scots

Colorful pages in Texas history and romantic spots on the world globe come alive for members of Hi Park's Junior Historical Society and Travel Club.

Special Junior Historical Society programs this year included an informative lecture on the work and background of Six Flags Over Texas and a review of Texas history books, presented by the Dallas Public Library.

Travel Club members heard a talk on Japan and the Far East and relived summer jobs in other cities with Scots Randy Wieser, Robert Nichols, and Al Elrod. A joint program for both clubs was presented by Sue Wheeler, who spoke on her trip to Finland.

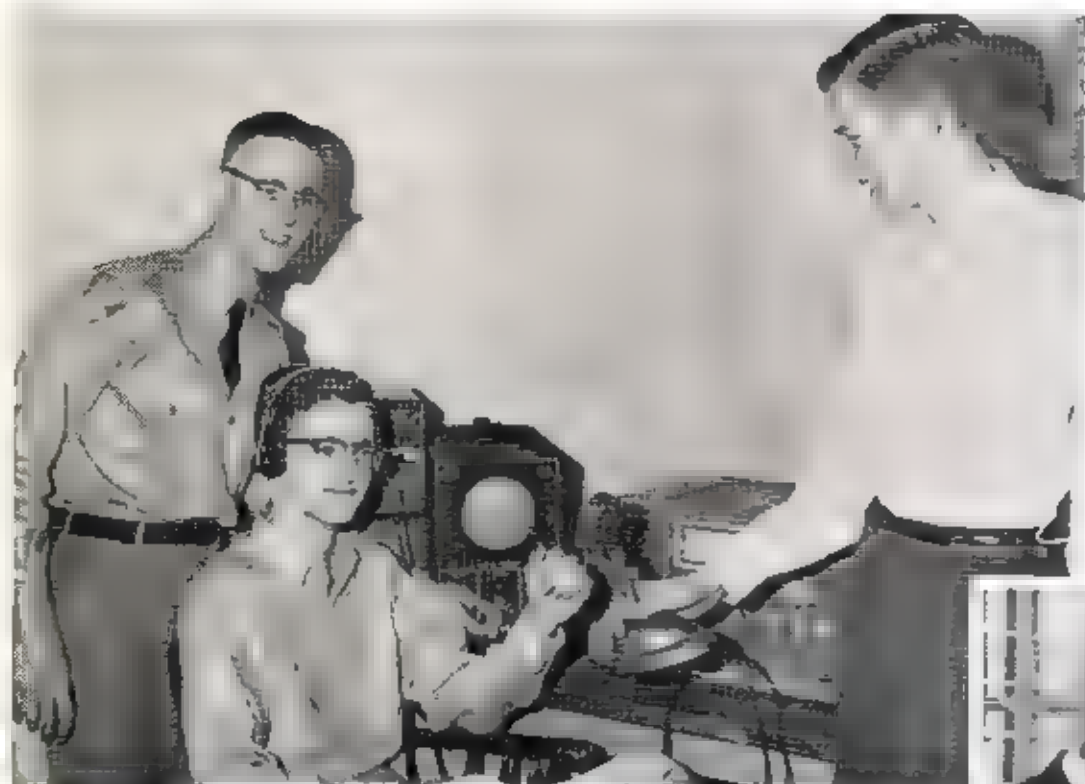

Club membership is open to all interested girls in school. The clubs meet once each month, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Dorothy Daniel.

Radio Club Develops New Space Age Skills

Officers Peter Guy, David Zeiss, and Stuart Umpleby are successful in their attempt to contact a far-away radio station with Radio Club equipment.

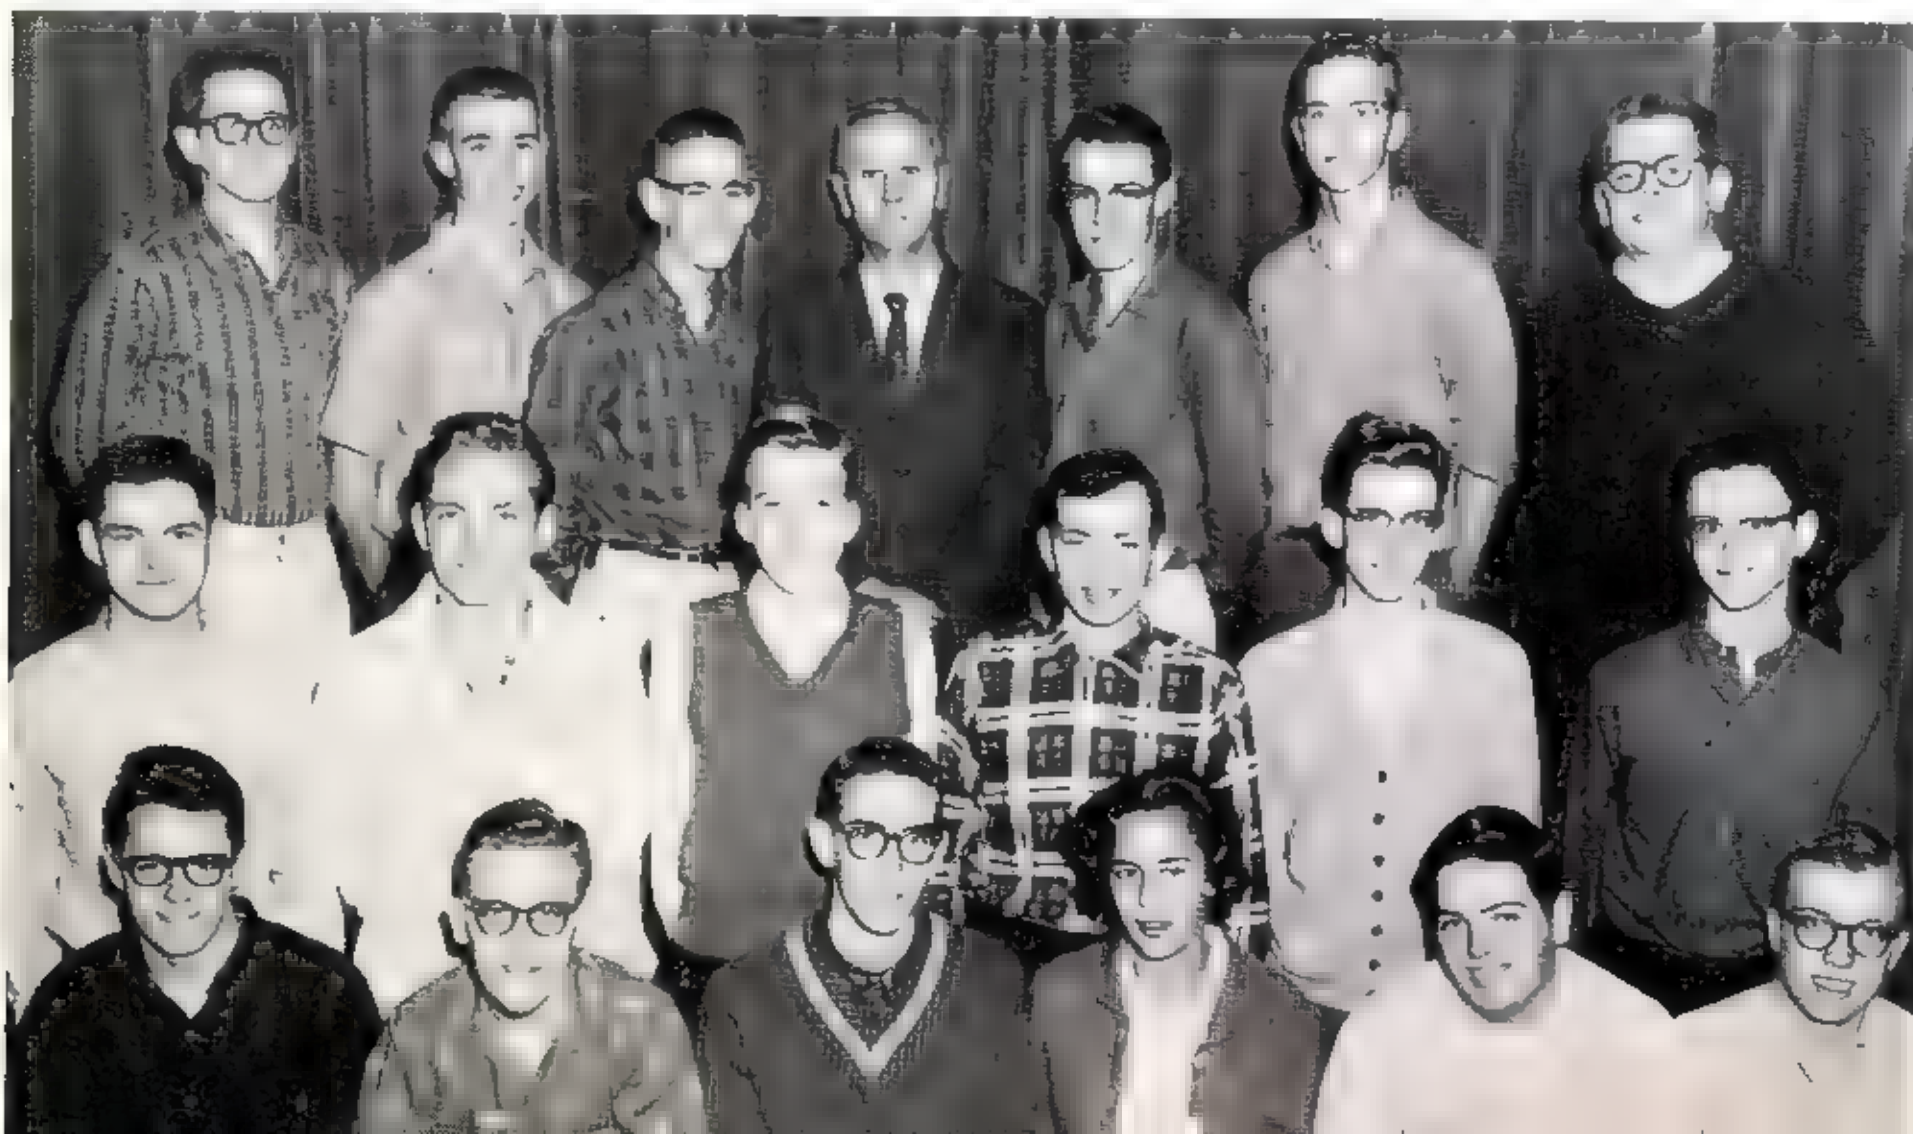

Club sponsor L. M. Evans discusses technical electronic principles with Danny Blackburn, president.

Connecting Hi Park with faraway places, the Radio Club has contacted stations from Canada to Mexico City. This year the club purchased another receiver, which now enables them to operate two stations at one time.

The club meets every Friday after school to study code and theory and to practice actual operation of the club's two receivers and transmitters. Projects inviting student participation were also undertaken by Hi Park's "hams." Club members made a field trip in the spring to Continental Electronics.

Librarians Assist Bewildered Book Lovers

Delivering fine slips, shelving books, and helping confused Scots around the library are just a few of the jobs performed by Hi Park's Library Council each day.

The Council's approximately twenty members must be able to maintain a high scholastic record. Officers this year included Carol Evans, president; Andie Chapman, vice-president; Terry Roeder, secretary; and Joan Bruyere, treasurer.

Library workers are given a chance to learn all aspects of library work although each member usually handles only one job. This experience provides good college training.

Representatives from Hi Park's Council attended meetings of the Teen-Age Library Association in Austin and Mineral Wells to confer with library workers from all over the state. At the first meeting in the fall Joan Bruyere was elected secretary of TALA and helped to plan the workshops to be conducted later in the year.

Hi Park Musicians Contribute to All-State

Strains from "Winter Wonderland" and "Annie Get Your Gun" flowed from attentive instruments as Hi Park's orchestra serenaded Scots at the Christmas program and the spring musicals.

The musicians also presented an annual spring concert and conducted a money-making candy sale.

Orchestra members helped to promote the Symphony Balls, a series of concerts and dances available to Dallas high school students at special prices. Social activities included a fall picnic and a spring banquet.

Twelve musicians were accepted in the All-State Orchestras of Texas. Those placing in the All-State Youth Orchestra were Yvette Bourgeois and Melissa Gossett, viola; Ben Hill, trumpet; Stewart McDonald, trombone; Carl Metler, cello; and Anne Walton, piccolo. Scots in the All-State Symphony Orchestra were Donna Gonzalez, Anne Herndon, Keith Howard, and Jan Johnston, violin; Jim Harp and Melanie Washburn, viola. The twelve members attended the Texas Music Educator's Convention in February then participated in the Grand Concert.

Profession Planners Seek Career Guidance

"Correcting my one transfer folder in class may not be so bad, but look at that stack of thirty!" grimaces F.T.C. President Susan Howell to Miss Hortense Watkins, club sponsor.

Future nurses Patsy Murph, vice-president, and Anne Lutterloh, secretary, have the full treatment in mind for some injured Scot as they invade the supply room.

"Career" is the key word in Hi Park's Future Teachers and Future Nurses Clubs, organizations which prepare interested girls for possible professions in teaching and nursing.

Future Teachers, sponsored by Miss Hortense Watkins, were given an insight into preparatory college courses by a panel of student teachers from the Highland Park school system.

A student discussion group and a film on the problems and rewards of first grade teaching also taught club members about the profession. In the spring, seniors of the organization attended elementary schools to observe actual teaching procedure and methods for half a day.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Julia Bartosh, Hi Park's Future Nurses Club is Texas' largest chapter of the Association of Future Nurses' Clubs. Members this year held group discussions and saw movies on medically related fields. As a yearly project, the organization sponsored the collection of Masterpiece seals from Hi Park students and used them to buy radios for local hospitals.

Members Represent Hi Park Band at State

Soldier, businessman, animal, and convict costumes converted Hi Park's marching band into a regiment of clowns which set a new high in half-time entertainment during the Paschal game.

Besides providing school concerts in the spring and fall, band members played at a Dad's Club meeting. During the fair the band performed and the Lassies did the Highland Fling on the mobile stage. They also participated in two torchlight parades and two Southern Methodist University pre-game shows.

At the fall regimental dance band princess Merilou Shoop was chosen ROTC queen. Rockefeller Center was gaily reproduced for the annual band dance in the fall.

John Walke and Dale Eichenberger were Hi Park's representatives to the All-Region Band, comprised of the top musicians from Region 10 of the Texas Music Educators Association.

Editor Marsha Kinnamon and Associate Editor Mary Walls employ a bit of wishful thinking as they adjust the awards received by Highlanders of past years.

Deadlines With Poised Pencils, Typewriters

Secret planning and silent excitement characterize the rewarding work of Highlander staff members as they produce a yearbook to be presented to Scots in the spring.

Planning and anticipation are not the only factors in the daily environment of this publication staff. Industrious pencils outline layouts, energetic photographers snap important pictures, and anxious workers spend endless hours meeting deadlines.

Staff members are selected by Miss Diane Cook, sponsor, and the editor from applications received in the spring. The basis for selection is grades, experience, teachers' recommendations, and dependability.

Delegates from the editorial and business staffs of the Highlander attend the Texas High School Press Association Convention at Denton in the fall. This year's editor, Marsha Kinnamon, spoke to state-wide delegates on yearbook cover designs, with the subject, "You Can Tell a Book by Its Cover." The 1961 Highlander received Medalist, First-in-Texas, A+, and All-American ratings.

A trip through Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas gave staff members a first-hand look at the techniques employed in publishing a yearbook.

Social events planned jointly by the Highlander and Bagpipe staffs include a Christmas party and a publications picnic in the spring.

Artists Pat Donovan and Gay Miller add the final trim on the tree for the Christmas music program.

Caricatures, Christmas trees, creative carvings . . . Artists and Artisans mixed hard work with fun to highlight a successful year.

Adopting a new name, the organization, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Mattie Childress, offered Scots an opportunity to gather with those sharing their artistic and creative interests. Group activities included an annual fall picnic to acquaint new members, field trips to local museums, lectures and demonstrations, and a special trip to the Valley House, a Dallas art gallery and museum.

Constructing and decorating the stage for such school events as the Christmas musical and operetta were also undertaken by the Artists and Artisans, who contribute both their time and talent to many worthwhile projects each school year.

Increasing world tension brought a step-up in the United States military program and placed new emphasis upon the ROTC at Highland Park.

Cadets in the Reserve Officers Training Corps obtain basic military training, a sense of patriotism, and respect for authority.

Daily instruction is given in marksmanship, care of weapons, and precision drilling. In weekly parades the cadets are given the opportunity to exhibit and practice the skills they have learned.

Hi Park's four Companies, Band, Drill Team, Rifle Team, and Regimental Staff present their queens at the Fall and Spring Regimental Balls. At each event one of the girls is chosen to reign as Regimental Queen.

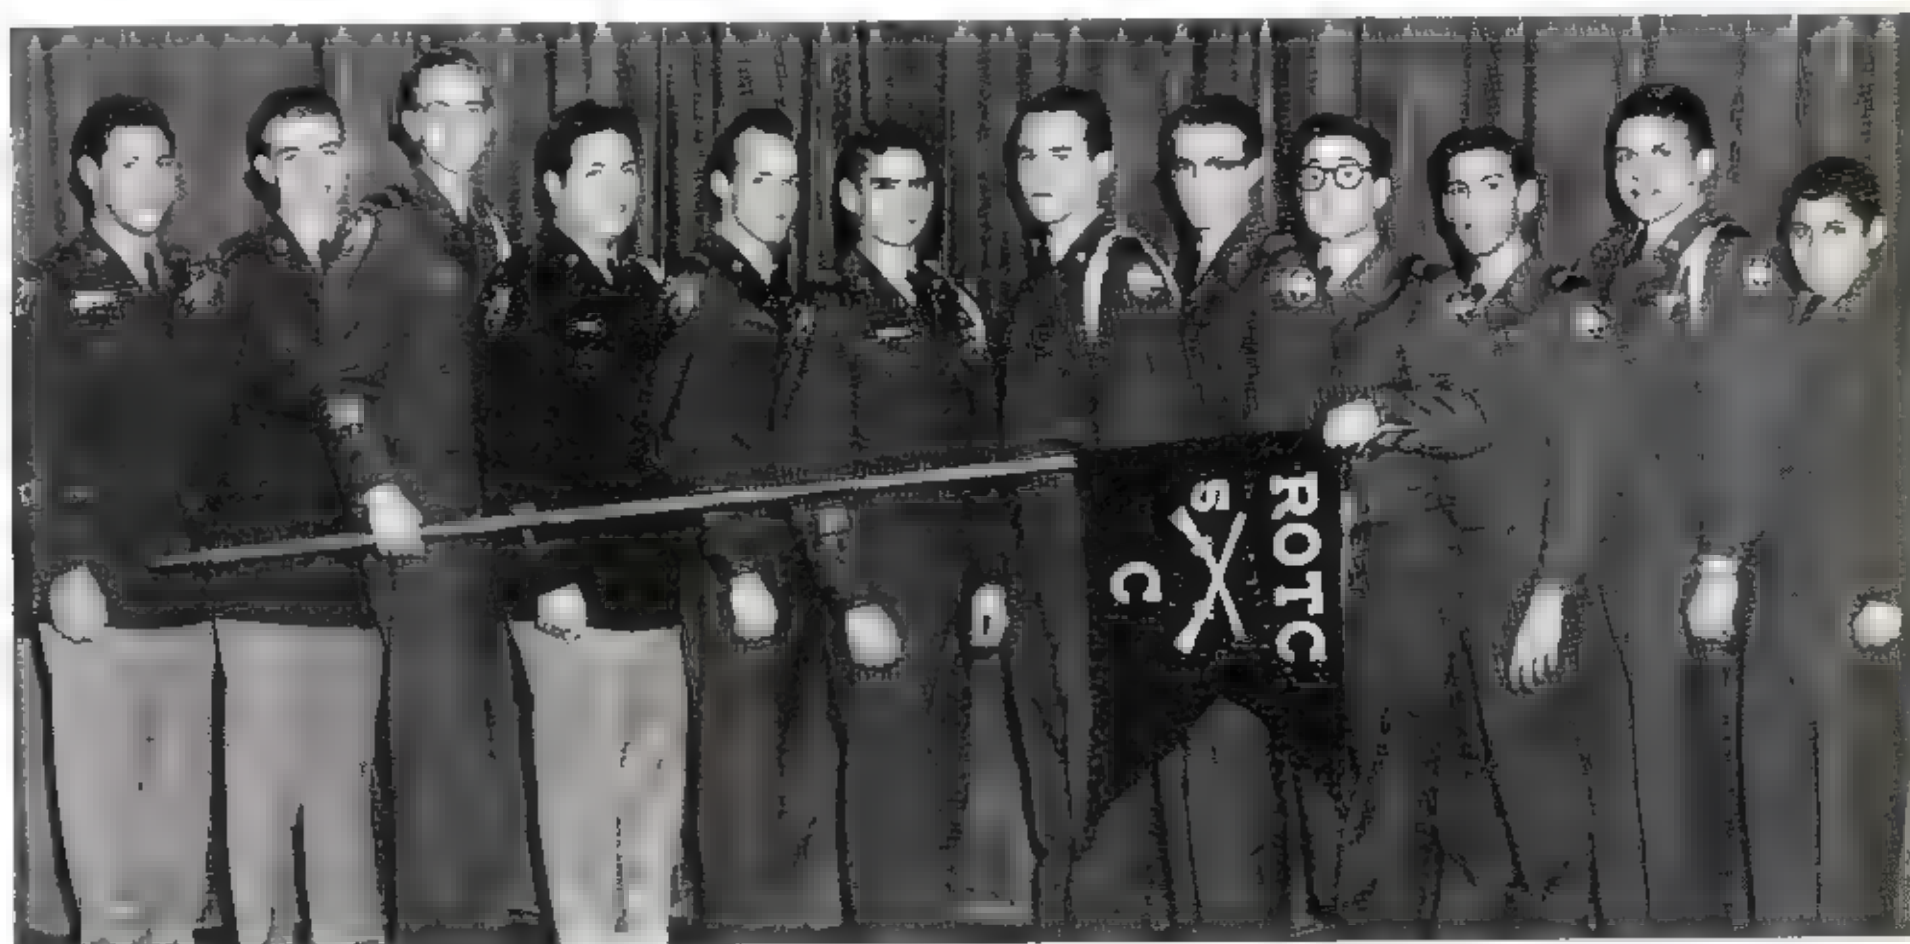

Aided by the cadet regimental staff, Commander Floyd Hightower, USNR; Col. Newman F. Casey, NSGRC; M/Sgt. William H. Sharp, U.S. Army; and M/Sgt. Liburn D. Stringfield, U.S. Army, direct the ROTC activities.

Grenadier Guards Perform at Federal Inspection

Paratrooper boots, ascots, and white gloves are trademarks of the Grenadier Guards, commonly known as the Drill Team.

Cadets in the Drill Team perform in inter-school competition, in Wozencraft Drill Competition, and during federal inspection. Presenting eight queens at the Fall and Spring Regimental Balls is another important duty of the Drill Team.

Participation in the Drill Team, which is directed by M/Sgt. Sharp, is determined by appearance within companies, leadership ability, and military efficiency.

"Crack-shots" of the ROTC, members of the Rifle Team, compete in matches on the local, state, and national levels. An important event is the Arlington Competition, a nation-wide contest.

Cadets on the Rifle Team under the direction of M/Sgt. Stringfield are selected on the basis of marksmanship and performance within their companies. Letter jackets are awarded to outstanding "sharpshooters" each year.

Sharpshooters Larry Fellman and Dennis Swenson take aim under the eagle eye of M/Sgt. Liburn D. Stringfield.

Ambitious Students Determine Long-Range

Scot seniors and underclassmen reach for high goals in their college and future plans. Seniors especially have the opportunity to climb high in their immediate steps to college. Ninety-seven per cent of Highland Park High School's graduates attend college.

Through the excellent counseling program and the senior manual, Planning Ahead, Scots learn much about colleges and their entrance requirements. Many representatives from colleges and universities come to Hi Park to discuss their schools with interested students. Seniors also take College Boards and the Strong Vocational Tests.

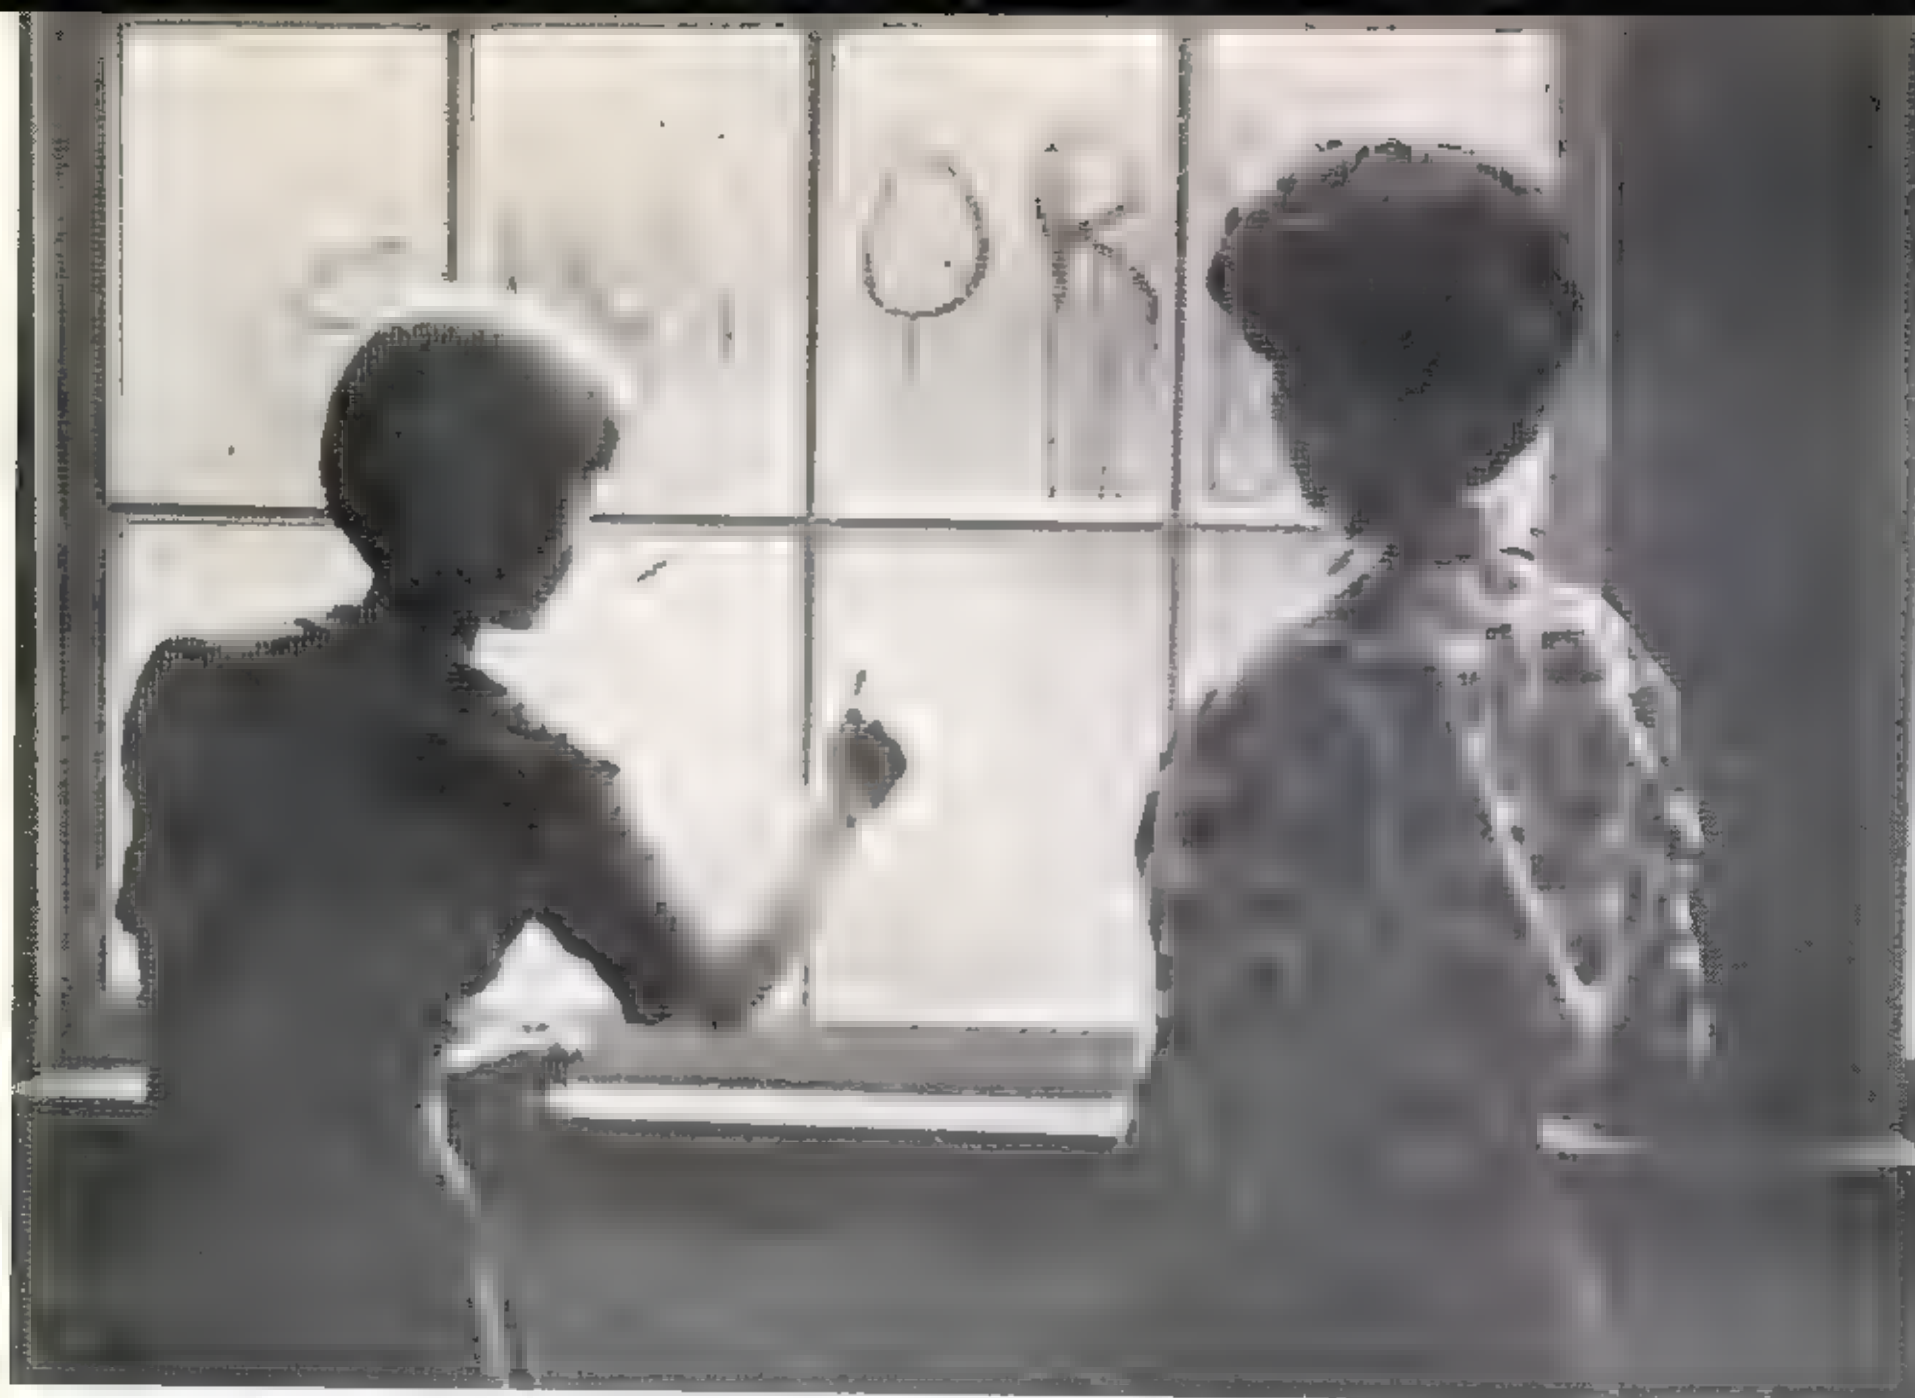

Although underclassmen are inclined to believe that their most important goal is a weekend date or studying for the all-important exams, they too begin to make long-range college plans. They discuss these with the sophomore and junior counselors and take batteries of tests, qualifying themselves for competitive colleges.

Plans for College, Possible Vocational Goals

Dr. Martinez, representative from Tulane University and Sophie Newcomb College, describes the advantages of his school to college aspirants in Hi Park's senior class.

Anne Mercer and Nancy DeSanders nostalgically inscribe senior on a frosty window.

Memory-Filled Year Climaxed in Senior Week

All summer long the hot sun flashed on lucky Scots' blue and gold rings, winking the signal. "I'm a Hi Park senior!" The long-awaited year had arrived at last, and '62 seniors were eagerly looking forward to it as their best one yet.

Soon the last "first day of school" arrived. Seniors basked in the adulation of sophomores, impressed by their upperclassmen prestige. On cool autumn nights seniors took in the smells and sounds of Highlander Stadium as they watched the football team score victory after victory.

The Hi-Lite American Bandstand dance gave seniors a chance to Twist, Continental, and Hully-gully. Annual musical events in which seniors participated were the orchestra, Highlandaires, and Lads and Lassies assemblies and extracurricular programs.

After Thanksgiving there was a short breather and then began the gala whirl of parties, dances, caroling get-togethers, and New Year's Eve celebrations that accompany the Christmas season. The grueling ordeal of mid-term exams flew by surprisingly fast for seniors, jubilant because these were the last for them until college days.

Next came the Student Council elections, which made the senior officers feel a twinge of sadness, for they soon would be passing their duties on to the junior class. Easter vacation was nearing to relieve traditional senior spring fever with its fun in the fresh air and budding outdoors.

Graduation celebrations began to rush by the dazed but excited seniors. They scurried back and forth attending breakfasts, brunches, lunches, teas, coke parties, picnics, dinner parties, dances, and slumber parties. Finally the climax, Senior Week, arrived with its senior picnic, all-night party, Baccalaureate program, dinner dance, and senior slumber party. The most thrilling time of all, however, was commencement night, when each senior received his cherished diploma, the symbol of all the hard work, fun, and maturing he had done at Hi Park.

Ellen, Len, John, Kathy, and Mr. Bishop peruse college catalogues in the senior counselors' office.

Juniors Find Themselves "In the Middle"

Juniorhood . . . the "almost but not quite" stage of high school. No longer sophomores but not yet seniors, Hi Park's juniors began the second phase of their preparation for college and adulthood.

This year they had their own class representatives, Susan Williamson and Ralph Baker, on the Student Council. Junior boys made up almost half of Hi Park's Golden Avalanche; and the junior girls gave their enthusiastic support at pep rallies, football games, and basketball games.

In class they encountered American history, chemistry, junior English, and plane geometry with a little bit of solid geometry mixed in. Kept busy with their studies and extra-curricular activities, many juniors maintained honor roll averages.

The second semester brought National Merit and college board exams, senior rings, and the Junior-Senior Prom. With the end of the school year approaching, juniors realized that they had come two-thirds of the way on their journey, and that the climax would be reached when they became Hi Park's new senior class.

Fledgling Sophs Adopt Scot Traditions

Scot traditions, unfamiliar halls and classrooms, a new atmosphere of sophistication and responsibilities . . . these were all a part of the wonderful high school world into which Hi Park's sophomores came.

This year was the beginning of high school, the last milestone before college and careers for the new Scots, and they found it to be a year of exciting discoveries and good times. Quickly the youngest Scots caught on to old Scot traditions and ways, and eagerly they sought to participate in the many school and club activities.

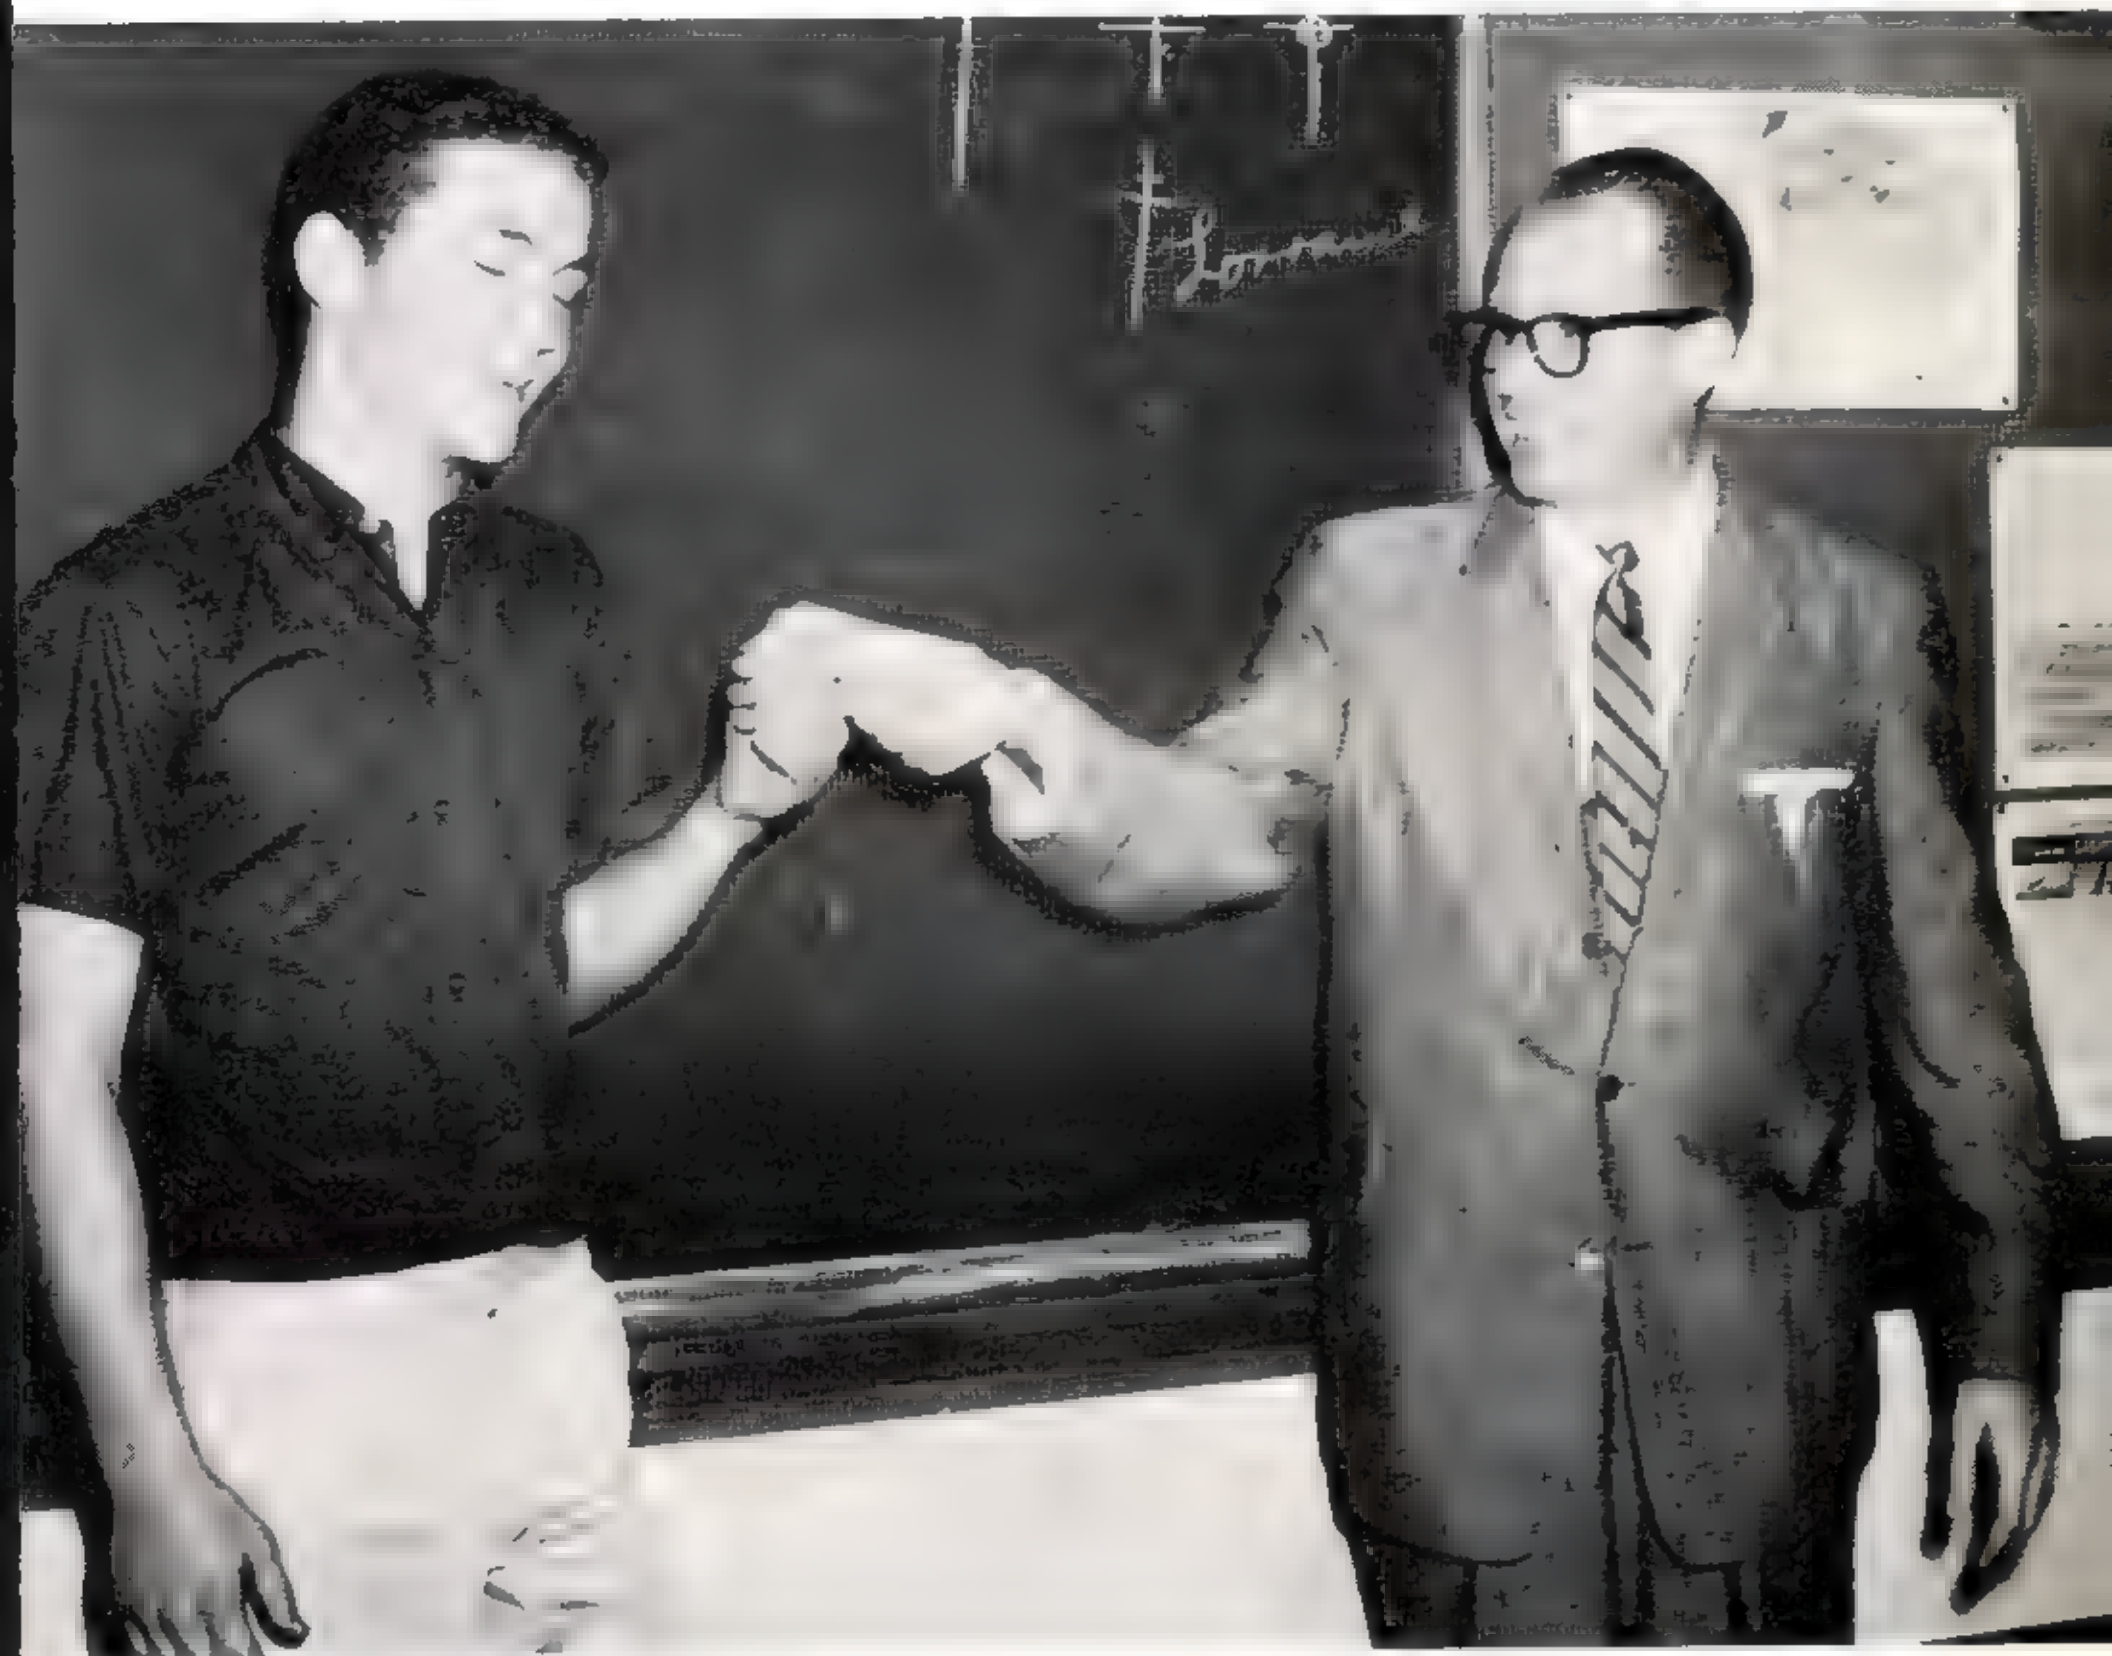

As the weeks passed by, they became settled in their courses, learning new concepts and ideas in algebra, English, Latin, Spanish, and biology. Along with the juniors and seniors, many sophs took advantage of the new science labs. The study of Greek myths and Julius Caesar in sophomore English provided opportunities for original skits and projects.

This was the year of the new dance craze, the "Twist," bouffant hair-do's, and short-short skirts, and the young Scots contributed their share of enthusiasm for the new fads.

It was a year full of good times and also serious plans for the future. As it closed, fledgling Scots faced for the first time the annual dilemma of how to coordinate final exams with year-end social activities and felt twinges of jealousy for "examless" seniors.

"I'm afraid to look," says James Maund as he reluctantly accepts his report cards from Mr. Pickard.

Sportsmanship, Spirit, Teamwork Stressed

Long hours of training, exercise, and hard work are needed to produce the outstanding athletic teams at Highland Park High School. Good sportsmanship and teamwork are stressed in all sports, whether inter-school or intramural.

During the autumn Scots get "football fever," and Highlander Stadium fills to capacity as Scots cheer the Golden Avalanche.

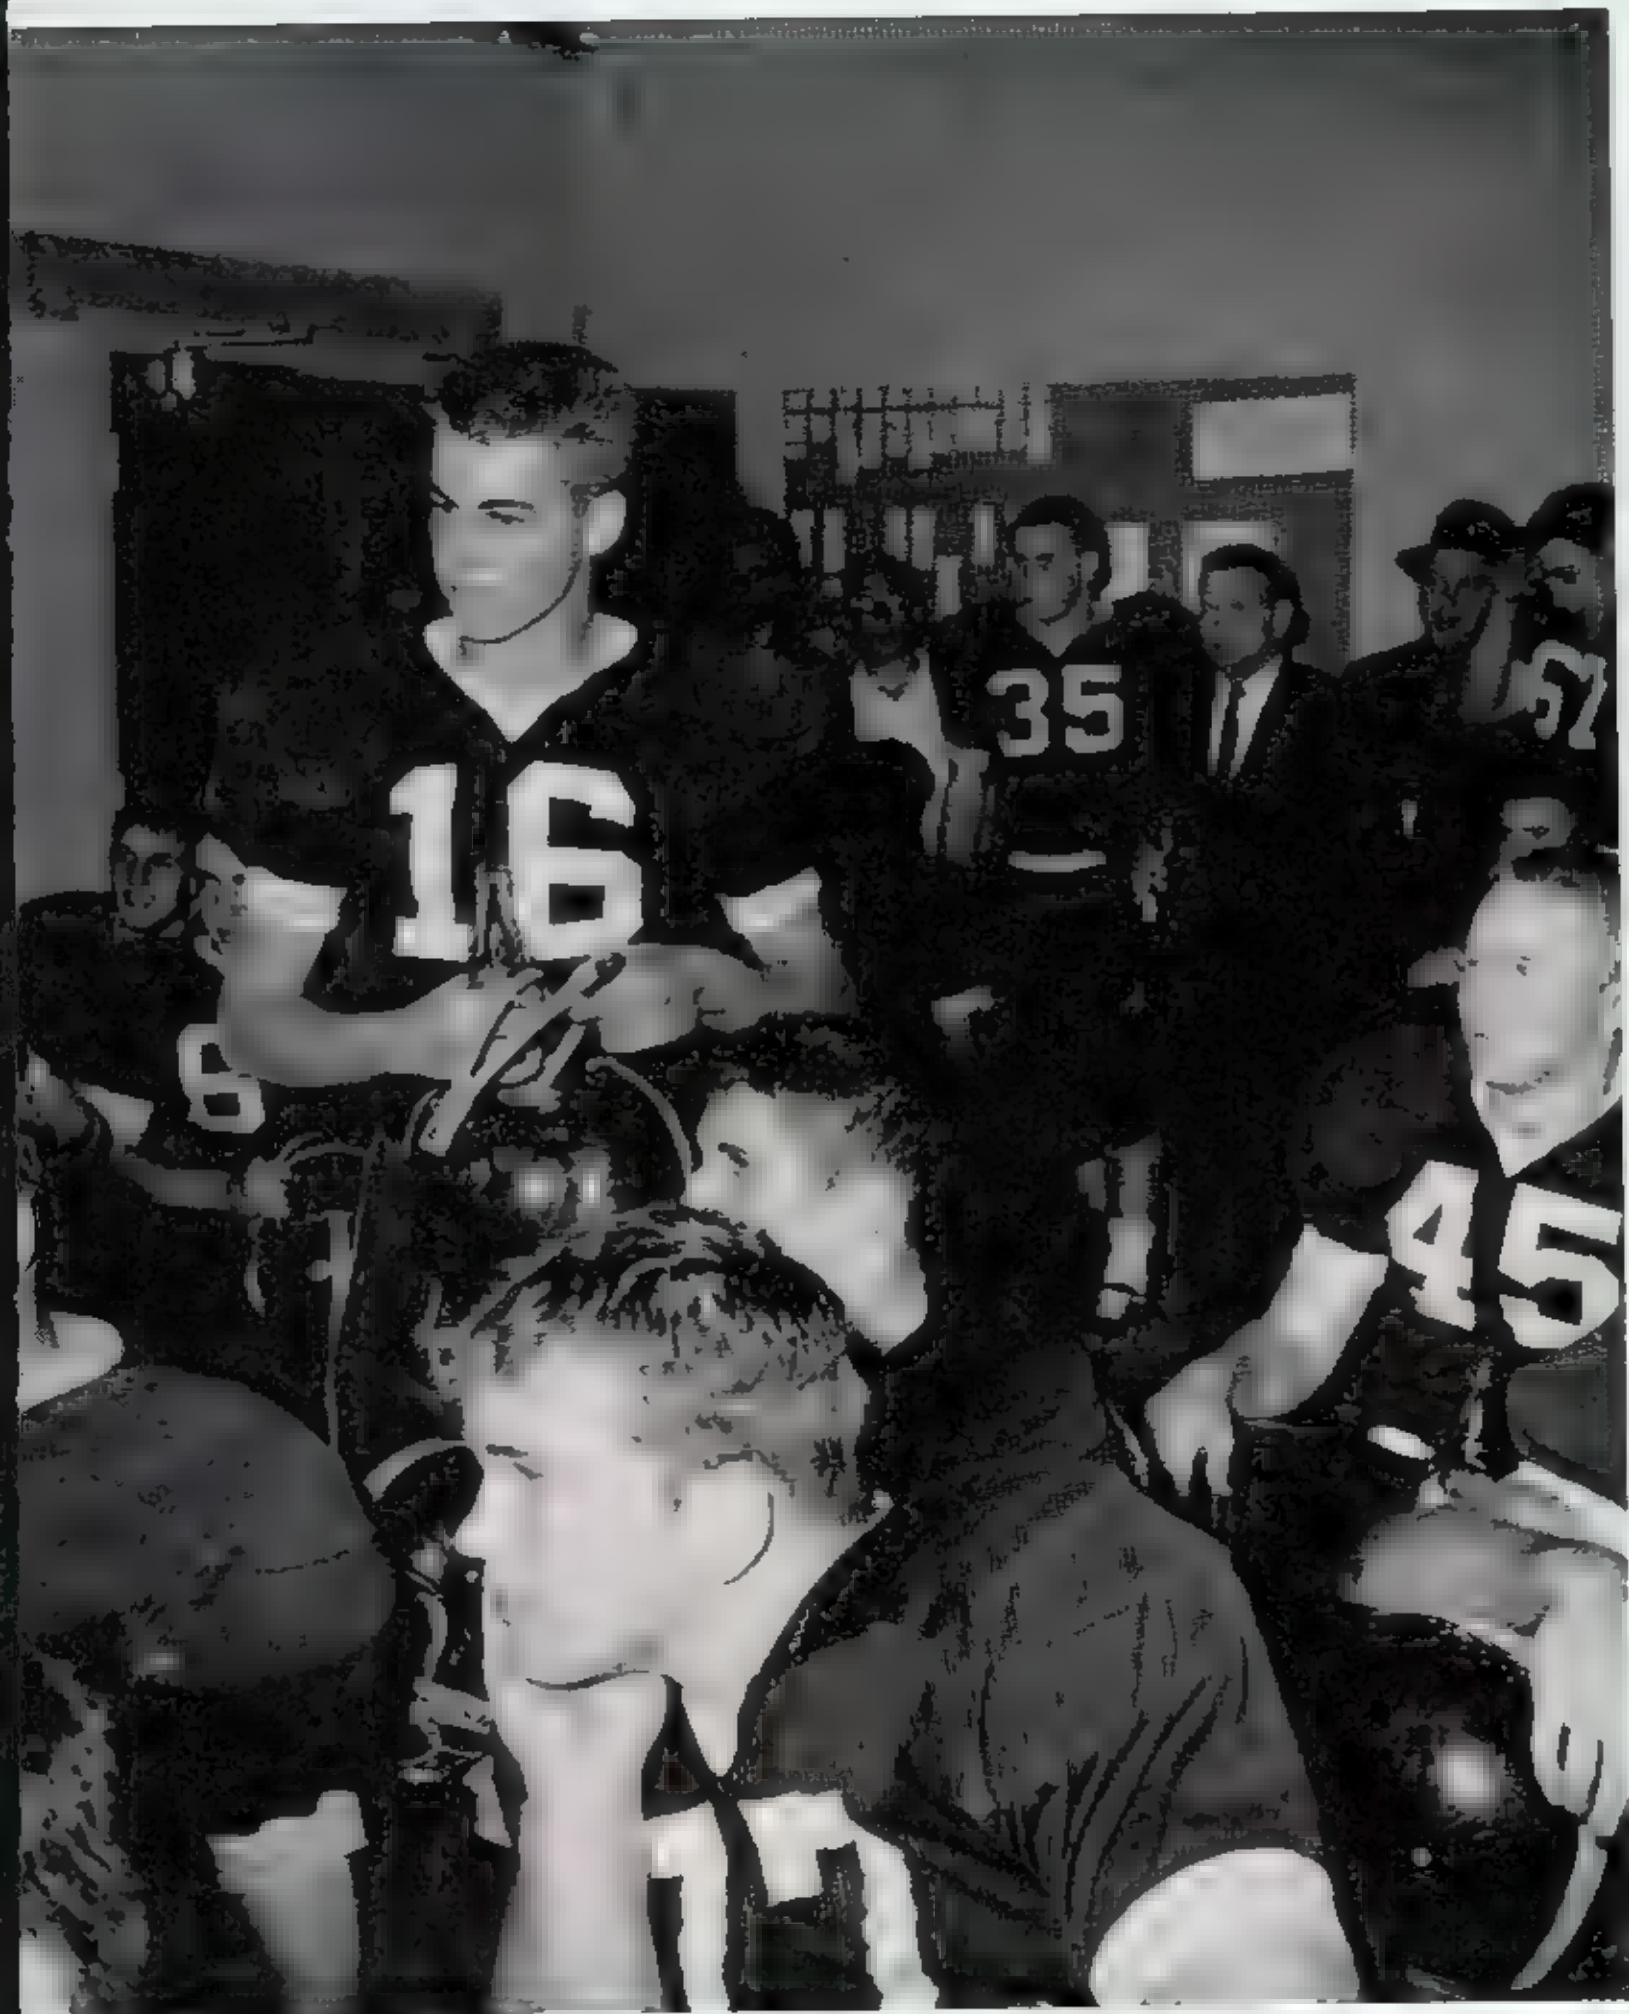

Basketball and baseball games also have the backing of the student body. The track, swimming, and golf teams enter competition in the spring.

The girls have an after-school intramural program in addition to the gym classes. Class all-stars also play in championship games. Top athletes are honored by membership in the Girls' Athletic Association.

Whether participating as player or as spectator, each Scot feels a responsibility to promote Hi Park's spirit and sportsmanship.

Hi Park's Well-Rounded Sports Program

In the locker room at half time Scots concentrate intently as the coaches review the first half and make plans for the second.

"Fight, team, fight," yell Scot cheerleaders during a practice session.

Hi Park Cheerleaders Bolster Scot Courage

What makes a Hi Park cheerleader? The main ingredients are pep, enthusiasm, acrobatic ability, and a special quality of leadership which catches the crowd's mood and sparks Scot spirit.

Elected in the spring, the six boys and girls attend during the summer a cheerleading workshop at SMU, where they practice new yells, learn techniques of promoting spirit and enthusiasm, and share ideas with cheerleaders from other schools.

Advised by Sponsors Mrs. Gynne Manson and Miss Jayne Murchison, the cheerleaders boost spirit at football, basketball, and baseball games. Working with the Pep Rally Committee, they plan the programs for Thursday morning pep rallies and for special after-school pep rallies.

The mascot, six-year old Pam Hudnall, sister of ex-Scot Mickey Hudnall, promoted spirit at pep rallies and football games.

Cheering Scot Fans Fill Highlander Stadium

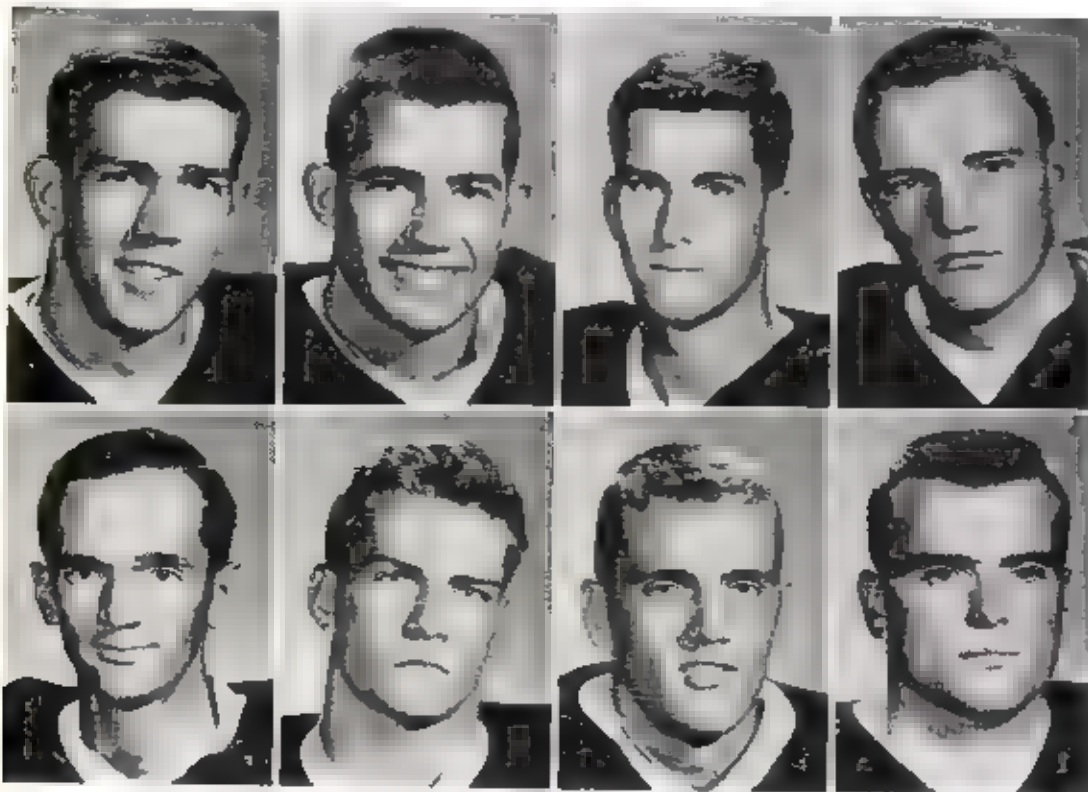

Labeled as underdogs, the fighting '61 Scots opened their season against the defending city champions, the Samuel Spartans.

The Hi Park attack was sparked by the passing of Co-Captain Corky Terry and the receiving of Jack Myers and Craig Bartlett as the Scots plastered the Spartans, 27-12.

The Grand Prairie Gophers next challenged the Scots. Early scores by Hal Cooper and Reagan Dixon put Hi Park out in front. The Highlander defense then took over and contained the fired-up Prairie-men's passing attack, enabling the Clansmen to edge the Gophers, 14-12.

Test number three for the Scots came with the Thomas Jefferson Rebels. Offense was the story of the night, as Hi Park took an early lead only to see it demolished by the aerial-minded Rebels who slipped by the Scots, 22-21.

on Friday Nights to Boost Hi Park Victories

Busloads of high-spirited Scot rooters journeyed to Arlington Heights to help the Golden Avalanche gain their third win, 18-6, over the Yellow Jackets. Dick Mayes and Jim Tatum, combining for the three scores, paced the Hi Park victory.

Scots learned the importance of the last half of a football game when they met the Paschal Panthers. The Panthers, who later became State semifinalists, completely dominated the first half, moving to a 10-0 lead.

However, the never-give-up Scots drove for two scores in the last half, while Paschal made one. Then with time running out, the Scots moved from their own ten to the Panther six, where Corky Terry was stopped one yard and a minute short of victory, sending the Clansmen down to defeat, 17-11.

"The golden teapot," symbol of Hi Park-Hillcrest football rivalry, was kept in the Scots' possession when they smothered the Panthers, 46-8. Senior halfback Dick Mayes accounted for four of the Scot touchdowns, his last tally coming on a 39-yard gallop with 13 seconds left in the game.

Clansmen Savor Sweet Sherman Revenge

District play for the Scots opened in Denton against the high-spirited Broncos. Outstanding defense by linemen Randy Wieser and Cappy Waters held Denton to 12 points. The Scot offense led by Hal Cooper, the game's leading rusher, clicked for 20 points.

"REVENGE!" Scot fans shouted this battle cry as the Golden Avalanche, hoping to avenge last year's one-point loss, collided with the Sherman Bearcats in the 1961 Homecoming game. Piling up a quick lead, the Scots were in front, 14-6, at half-time. Dick Mayes powered the clinching Scot scoring drive in the fourth quarter, and the Scots had their revenge.

When the Scots journeyed to Denison for their third district game, they were tied with the Yellow Jackets for the District 7-AAAA title. Defensive might was displayed by both teams in the first half, while in the second half the Yellow Jackets rolled to two touchdowns. Behind by 12 points, the Scots rallied for one score; but time ran out for the Scots with the final tally, 12-6.

Arch rival Garland provided the Scots with their last test of the season. Angry at their loss to Denison, the Scots crushed the hapless Owls, 32-8. Charles King sparkplugged the Highlander offense by scoring four of the five Scot touchdowns and leading the Scots to second place in district.

Pep rallies, ticket-selling drives, and a fast moving brand of basketball combined to bring increasing crowds to view Scot tournament and district games.

Year-round practice led by co-captains Mike Massad and Frank Monroe molded the Scots into a smooth-working outfit and enabled them to post a 16-10 season record. After losing their first game to South Oak Cliff, the Scots were victorious in their next three outings. Temple, Kimball, South Oak Cliff fell under the high scoring cagers.

The annual Austin and Dr. Pepper tournaments provided the Scots a chance to meet top teams from all over the state. The Hi Park roundballers brought home the consolation trophy from the Austin tournament, and Scot guard Bill Short was named to the All-Tournament team for his outstanding play.

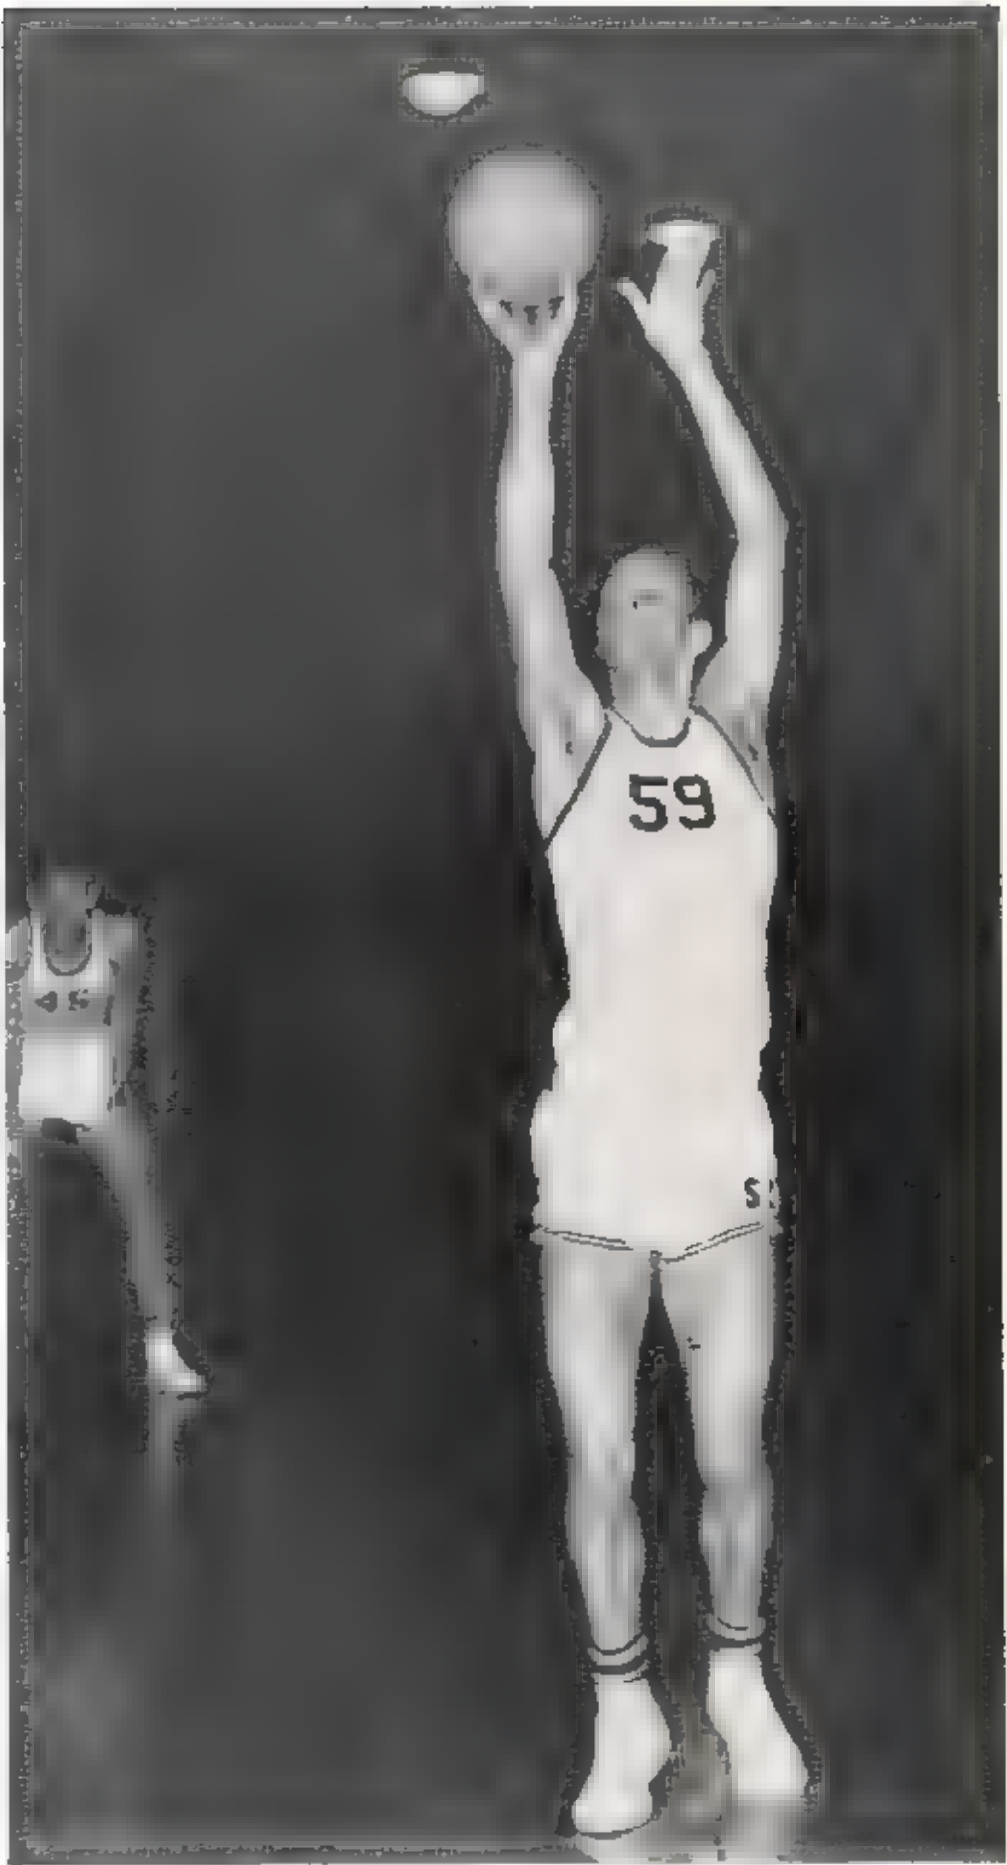

Center John Christy takes careful aim as he attempts to sink a free shot against Sherman.

In their next two encounters the Clansmen defeated North Dallas, 57-48, and bowed to Thomas Jefferson, 66-48.

Playing in the Dr. Pepper Tournament, the Scots advanced to the quarterfinals, outscoring Decatur, 46-25, and Richardson, 54-50, before being eliminated by the tournament champion T.J. team.

The Scots then wound up their pre-district action with an 11-5 record, besting Temple before falling to Grand Prairie. The Highlander cagers started play right, defeating Sherman 70-53 as John Christy hit for 30 points. The Scots were turned back in their next two clashes. Denton, defending district champ, and Garland edged the Scot cagers.

Seeing their hopes of the district crown fading, the Scots rallied and climbed to within one game of the championship by defeating their next four opponents. First Denison fell by a 56-49 score, then Sherman, 77-57, Denton, 61-54, and Denison, 62-39. Mike Massad, Buddy Storey, John Christy, Bill Short, and Frank Monroe sparked the cagers in these decisive games.

Highland Park next met Garland to decide the district championship. Cheered on by visiting Hi Park fans, the Scot five took an early lead, but saw it demolished as Garland took the game, 58-54.

This game ended the '61-'62 basketball season for the Scots as they finished in a tie for second place in District 7-AAAA and placed John Christy on the first All-District Team and Bill Short on the second team. Mike Massad and Frank Monroe gained honorable mention.

Scot Diamondsmen Enter Spring Competition

Sunny days, the crack of the bat, and the pop of leather marked the beginning of the 1962 baseball season at Hi Park.

With eight returning lettermen the Scots defeated Sunset, 4-0, in the first game. Before setting out in district warfare the Highlanders faced further early season competition with Woodrow Wilson, Thomas Jefferson, Grand Prairie, Richardson, and Sunset.

Season standouts for the Scots were Co-captains Frank Monroe and Corky Terry, who were holding down the third base and pitching positions. Supporting them were outfielders Bill Short and Rick Nesbit, catcher Buddy Storey, infielder Al Badger, and pitcher-outfielders Steve Ortmayer and Reagan Dixon.

In district play the Scots were up against the strong Garland and Sherman squads and last year's co-champ and bi-district winner, Denton.

5 All-Americans Lead Swimmers to Victory

Five All-American and seven All-State swimmers led the defending state champion Scot swimming team as they swept their first six meets.

Competition preparing the Hi Park tankers, co-captained by All-Americans David Quick and Mike Offner, for the State Meet included victories in dual meets with Wichita Falls, Paschal, the SMU freshmen, and wins at the Wichita Falls and Texas Invitationals and in the SMU Relays.

Pacing the Scots in these early victories were David Quick, Howard Moore, and John Graham in the butterfly and freestyle, and Rick Nesbit, Mike Offner, and Buzzy Waters in the breaststroke. Bill Bailey and Buddy Jordan starred in the freestyle and Tommy Tye led the team in the backstroke.

Co-captain Mike Offner catches his breath while swimming the exhausting breaststroke.

Tennis Team Enters District Tournament

In their first meet against Sunset High of Dallas, Captain Harvey Davis and teammates Jack Crosland, Dan Cox, and John Field swept all matches to set the pace for the 1962 tennis season.

Highland Park followed up the Sunset victory with six more conquests, two ties, and two defeats, leaving them with a record of 7-2-2. Both defeats against the Scots were registered by Wichita Falls, one of the top teams in the state.

Next the team met Paschal, Eastern Hills, and Bryan Adams in practice meets. After these meets the netters journeyed to Denton for the district meet, followed by the regional meet in Dallas and the state meet in Austin.

Captain and returning letterman Harvey Davis smashes a serve into the opposite court.

Training, Develop Determination, Scot Spirit

To teach the fundamentals of the game and to develop a sense of determination, school loyalty, and spirit, Hi Park's three "B" teams train underclassmen for future varsity participation.

District crowns went to the 1961-1962 Scot "B" teams in football and basketball. Boasting a 7-2 season record the Scot "B" football team swept all the district games and in district play scored 183 points to their opponents' combined score of 22 points in four games.

The underclassmen roundballers wound up their season with a 12-6 record, posting victories over Garland, Denton, Kimball, and Grand Prairie.

On the schedule for the "B" moundsmen are games with Richardson, Woodrow Wilson, Thomas Jefferson, Jesuit, and Garland.

Linksmen Victorious in First Ten Outings

Practice rounds played every week by Hi Park's 1962 golf team paved the way for ten victories in their first ten outings. Captain Jeff Voss, with the aid of sophomore Bobby Abbott, juniors Rhodes Bobbitt and Ronnie Neiman, and seniors Ed English and Randy Wieser, paced victories over Garland, Denton, Bryan Adams, Paschal, and Kimball. Remaining competition for the Scot linksmen included practice matches with Garland, Denison and Denton, the Fort Worth Recreational Tournament, Galveston Tournament, and the Corpus Christi Invitational.

Following the Corpus Christi Tournament, the Scots participated in the important District and Regional Meets held in Denton and Dallas in April and the State Meet at Austin in May.

Girls' Sports

Nearing a G.A.A. championship game, team members maneuver and plot secret plays and line-up positions.

The winners of the play-off game in each sport are awarded gold charms, and patches are given to each competitor signifying by color and shape the sport and the number of years she has participated.

Divided into two teams, the "Blues" and the "Golds," girls compete in swimming, basketball, speedball, volleyball, and softball. Teams are chosen on the basis of participation, interest, and ability in intramural games.

Established in 1957, G.A.A. strives to promote interest in girls' athletics through its many activities. Among the duties of the officers elected in the fall is the collection of dues each semester which provide for the G.A.A. picnic.

h Fall Semester Intramural Competition

"Yea, Green Shoes!" "Go, World Walkers!" "Win, Wenie Winners!" are cries heard during intramural team competition in round robin or elimination tournaments after school.

Colorful names and intense rivalry increase the excitement between teams in the Monday-Wednesday and Tuesday-Thursday leagues. Each sport is climaxed by a play-off game between winners of both leagues.

In the fall, intramural activities include ping pong, tenniquoits, and basketball. During the spring semester the girls participate in volleyball, badminton, and softball.

The champions of each sport are entertained in the spring at a luncheon sponsored by the P-TA. Medals are awarded at the end of the year to girls who met required attendance standards.

"Go! Go! Go!" cry the rooters of the girls swimming teams on Wednesday night at Joe Perkins Natatorium. The teams are made up of girls from the different class levels with a captain for each group.

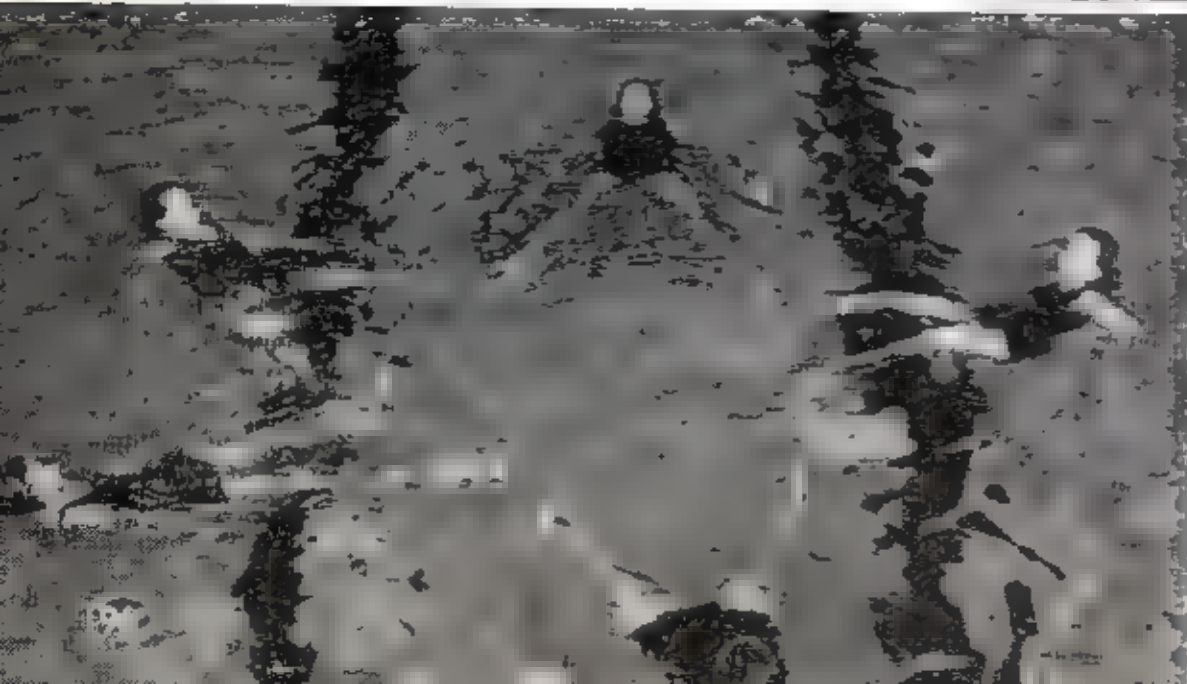

Anyone may compete in free-style, back-stroke, breaststroke, and butterfly in speed or form swimming, while divers spring for honors.

At the end of the sixth and final week the swimming coach, Mrs. Alfred Barr, selects the top athletes for the G.A.A. team. The team, which is made up of girls who have received points in meets and by daily attendance, compete in an all-star meet. The winners of the different events receive gold medals.

Flags from France, Mexico, and Spain were among the six represented in the water spectacular put on by the girls as a season finale.

Returning letterman Diane Andrews delivers a volley.

Practice Meets Prepare Netters for District

Keeping in shape for district competition in spite of the temperamental and changeable Texas weather has been the main objective of the girl's tennis squad this year.

Led by Captain Virginia Davis, the team spends part of each day's practice in running laps, taking calisthenics, and jumping rope. But with the appearance of good weather more and more time is spent by Coach Raymond Akin and the girls on the practice of serves, ground and net strokes, and strategy.

Junior letterman Diane Andrews spurred the hopes of the team for a successful season by reaching the quarterfinals of the annual Cotton Bowl Tournament.

Pam Hooker, Marilyn Marshall, and Gail Speed also compose the team's principal strength. Each girl must play in the round robin tournaments held during the first few weeks of school to qualify for team membership and standing.

Business Staff Sells Ads, Collects Bills

Spurred by the early summer pep talks of the business and advertising managers, the Highlander salesmen cover their assigned districts selling ads.

After ads have been sold and billed, the staff members take pictures to illustrate ads, gather copy, and lay out pages to meet approaching deadlines.

The Highlander business staff also sponsors the Highlander sales campaign in the autumn. Using posters, announcements, and skits, the circulation manager and her assistants sell yearbooks.

In the spring it is the duty of the business staff to distribute Highlanders to Scots. Seniors receive their last annuals at the senior picnic, and the underclassmen brave long lines of excited students to receive their yearbooks.

Distributes Long-Anticipated Highlanders

Mr. Kidd, sponsor, and business staff members plan strategy for the fall Highlander sales campaign.

Scots Look to New Horizons in Years Ahead

Scots watch the continuously evolving personality of their own lives and of the modern world. Graduating seniors especially search the skies and look forward to the future. But as they face that future, Scots realize that there is no limit even to the sky, only new horizons ahead to be conquered.

Earthbound Editor Melissa Kinnaman and Business manager Rita Haskins have airborne plans as they attempt to get the 1962 Highlander off the ground.

March Winds Stir Storms of Activity at Hi Park

March came in like a lion as the Lads and Lassies musical "Annie Get Your Gun" featured gun-shots, Indians, and the sharp-shooting of Annie Oakley.

Open House gave parents an opportunity to observe the various phases of Hi Park curriculum and activities. Scots took a Caribbean Cruise at the spring Hi-Lites Dance, where Johnny Crotty was elected 1962 Hi-Lite King.

Scot tankers brought back still another trophy by taking the State Swimming title the second year in succession at SMU. After the meet, jubilant Scots playfully dunked swimming coach Jerry Culp as they carried him through the water on their shoulders.

At the annual Basketball Banquet Ronny Goranson and Lou Ortmayer were chosen to lead next year's roundballers.

Lighted candles and a solemn pledge accompanied the National Honor Society initiation. Twenty-seven seniors and fourteen juniors were admitted.

Reverting to their childhood days at the Highlandaires' Dance, Scots danced, ate animal cookies, licked lollipops, and swung on a large swing.

Kathy Holden lights her candle as she is initiated into the National Honor Society. New senior members included Carolyn Alexander, Lee Carter, Sue De-Sanders, Carol Evans, Janice Ford, Bonnie Gostin, Janis Gregory, Ernest Harwig, Liz Himmel, Kathy Holden, Paula LaBarba, Jerry McFarland, Bill Maneval, Frank Monroe, Diane Pearlstone, Howard Rachofsky, Susan Reed, Tanyss Rhea, Charlotte Sargent, Merilou Shoop, Jacque Smith, Jeanie Stokes, Corky Terry, Michael Turner, Susan Waits, Buzzy Waters, and Frances Winston. New HiL's were Al Badger, Larry Bell, Warren Cole, Jack Corgan, Reagan Dixon, Ann Edwards, Ann Eliot, Mary Lou Melville, Mary Jane Mittenenthal, Dedra Orr, Lou Ortmayer, Susan Oistott, Doc Outland, and Mary Walls.

Junior-Senior Prom

April, true to tradition, was a rainy month, but despite the downpours, Scots were busily occupied with end-of-the-year activities.

At the final pep rally, held in honor of the track team, Sally Hawley was named queen.

The campaign assembly presented candidates to the student body, and elections decided next year's officers. After the winners were announced on April 13, Scots took off for a week of Easter vacation.

The various musical organizations held banquets, bringing the year to a close and announcing newly-elected officers. The Lads and Lassies held a Mardi Gras Ball; the Orchestra dined Italian style; and band members attended a production of "The Unsinkable Scottie Band."

The Quill and Scroll held its spring initiation, and members laid plans for a "down-on-the-farm" progressive dinner. On April 28, Scots became Dutch for a while as they danced among the tulips at the Junior-Senior Prom.

Underclassmen to Wander in Deserted Halls

As the long-awaited month of May arrived, excited seniors counted the days until graduation festivities would begin. Juniors and sophomores studied intently for exams and envied the seniors' exemption from those end-of-the-year woes.

Within two short days the long practiced Senior Play was over and actors no longer muttered their lines as they walked in the halls. This same week end Wayne Jackson won second place in extemporaneous speaking at the State Speech Contest.

Teary-eyed senior officers remembered their last year at Hi Park as they handed the symbols of their positions to the new officers at the Installation Assembly. The orchestra held its last concert of the year, and May's banquet season was ushered in with the Baseball Banquet and the Hi-Lite Banquet and elections. "The Halls of Ivy," a traditional good-bye to Hi Park, was sung by the Lads and Lassies at their final assembly in May, and the Spring Sports Banquet was held.

Then the seniors had no more time to reminisce, for the busy events of graduation were upon them. On their last day of school, the excitement of the Honors Assembly, in which the outstanding achievers were recognized, culminated at 1:30 p.m., when seniors were dismissed from Hi Park classes the final time.

On the Sunday following the senior exodus, Baccalaureate was held for graduates. Exams started for the underclassmen, but many took a breather from studying to witness the biggest event of the year for their superiors—graduation.

Charlie Davenport (Les Tarrance) informs the Wilson House guests and the Cincinnati town folk of the coming of the one-and-only Buffalo Bill.

Spirits of success rose with a bang and standing ovations rewarded months of patient work as the 1962 Lads and Lassies presented three performances of "Annie Get your Gun" to capacity crowds.

Directed by Miss Flora Lee Pope and choreographed by Anne Lorch and Kathleen Blaylock, the production recalled the days of the Wild West, and involved the rivalry between sharp-shooters Frank Butler (Jim Walters) and Annie Oakley (Cornelia Cappleman), which proved in the end that "you can't get a man with a gun." Aspiring child actors featured as members of Annie's family were Joan Prather as Minnie, Beth Peabody as Jessie, Holly Cappleman as Nellie, and Kevin Gray as Little Jake.

Accompaniment to the singing and dancing of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical was produced by the Highland Park orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Doris Griffith. Drama director was Mrs. Jo Pettigrew, and Mrs. Mattie Y. Childress led the Artisans in designing and executing the stage sets.

Members of the "elite," Anne Simpson, Sandra Allen, and Pam Gray lend a critical eye to "enchanted" Annie (Cornelia Cappleman).

"I can shoot the tail feathers off'n a roo-ter," brags crack-shot Annie Oakley to her gun-happy rival, Frank Butler (Jim Walters).

Mary Louise (Mary Glen Joy) expresses her obvious delight as she clutches a letter concerning her favorite subject, "her" Paul.

Gaining a sympathetic look from his wife (Diane Rowand), Felix Ducotel (Peter Link) tries in vain to persuade Madame Parole (Molly Behannon) that she has overrun her credit.

With Final Tributes

Len Vaughn grasps his hand in agony as the full revenge of "Adolph" is felt.

Adolph, a slinky black snake in a brown coconut jar, cooperated with its three favorite partners-in-crime to strike a tone of intrigue as the senior class of 1962 presented its final "dramatic" tribute to Hi Park.

"My Three Angels" featured a trio of convict "cherubs" with spirits for suspense. Norman Abbott, John Haines, and Ricky Zeulzer combined their talents to raise havoc in a small shopkeeper's humble abode, and to eliminate the adverse elements in the life of the heroine, Mary Glen Joy. The most original frauds of the three master minds were directed toward the store's owner, portrayed by Buddy Nash, and his proud nephew, portrayed by Len Vaughn.

Student director Carol Evans assisted Miss Molly Riley in directing the play, which was enacted on colorful sets designed by the Hi Park art department.

Norman Abbott and Ricky Zeulzer gloat on the brilliance of their zany fraud as John Haines releases the culprit.

Scot Swimmers Win Coveted State Crown

For the second straight year Hi Park's record-shattering tankers drowned all competition as they again copped the State Swimming crown.

After the end of winter conditioning sessions the team blazed through their early competition, registering impressive victories in dual meets with Wichita Falls, Paschal, and S.M.U. freshmen and in the S.M.U. Relays and Texas Invitational Meet. After placing five swimmers and two relay teams in the Southwestern AAC Meet, the Scots met their only defeat, a narrow decision to the highly-regarded Texas Freshmen.

At the State Meet, held for the first time in Dallas, the Scots overwhelmed their opponents, piling up 65 points to Spring Branch of Houston's 10. Records were set in two free-style events by David Quick and Bill Bailey as the 200-yard medley relay team also cracked a state mark. Failing to place in only one event, the 1962 tankers also had the honor of having one of their members, David Quick, as the only Texas swimmer ever to be a double champion for three years in a row.

Registering a 3-4-1 pre-district record with wins over Sunset, Grand Prairie, and Woodrow Wilson, and losses to Richardson and Thomas Jefferson, the 1962 baseballers entered district competition against the Garland Owls. Gaining an early lead, the Scots fell behind and came out on the short side, 6-2.

In their next two efforts the Hi Park diamondmen fell to Sherman and Denton by the margins of 6-2 and 5-2. The Scots' next encounter with Denison was cancelled because of bad weather. Arch rival Garland provided the next test for the Scots as co-captain Corky Terry hurled the Highlanders past the Owls 4-0.

The Scots were then edged 2-0 by the Sherman Bearcats, and the 1962 season was ended when district champ Denton walloped Hi Park 16-2.

John Roderick blazes ahead in the low hurdles at Regional to win the right to go to the State Meet.

With their flashing spikes grinding out Hi Park's sixteenth district championship in seventeen years, the Scot trackmen ended their season by sending hurdler John Roderick to the State Meet, where he set a national high school record.

In the District Meet at Denton the Highlanders took seven first places and amassed 162½ points to second place Garland's 127. The next weekend saw ten Scots participate in the Regional Meet at S.M.U. Here John Roderick set two records in the hurdles as he became the only Scot to qualify for state.

By clipping off a 18.0 in the 180-yard low hurdles at the State Meet, Roderick bettered the national school boy record by three-tenths of a second. He also brought home second place honors in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Victorious in their first ten outings, the 1962 Scot golf team next encountered district competition as they defeated Garland, Denison, and Denton.

In the District Meet the golfers placed two teams. The first one, led by Captain Jeff Voss and including Steve Summers, Bobby Abbott, and Ronnie Neiman, finished second behind Denison. Hi Park's second team, Rhodes Bobbitt, Mike DeLarios, Ed Inglish, and Randy Weiser, finished third at Denton.

Capturing all but one match at the District Meet, the Highland Park tennis team again reigned as district champion.

Co-captains Harvey and Virginia Davis captured the singles crowns as Gail Speed and Virginia Davis copped the girls' doubles trophy. After the District Meet Virginia advanced to the Regional Meet and then to the State Meet, where she was runner-up in final competition.

in Spring Competition

During the spring semester, girls sports activities began with eight weeks of volleyball fundamentals and competition and ended with a similar period of softball activities. Three weeks' instruction in the techniques of square dancing rounded out the girls' spring sports schedule.

As an added highlight to the end of the year's activities, the annual girls' sports luncheon was given at the S&S Tea Room. All members of G.A.A. and those girls who participated in a winning intramural, class, or all-star team in any sport were eligible to attend this luncheon, which was sponsored by the P.T.A..
